SAN FRANCISCO, March 1.—This is written in San Francisco, old, solid business city of the Pacific Coast. Here you are in a city long established, with its past, full memories, romance, adventure, its energetic present built upon a homogeneous, long established population.

THE FUTURE of this city, as of other American cities on the Pacific Ocean, is without limit. The gigantic State of California, with 5,000,000 population today, is destined to have fifty millions of population, with room, prosperity and happiness for all.

SAN FRANCISCO is the Western center of finance and foreign trade, and its industries, including those spreading into the suburbs and rapidly developing in the great city of Oakland across the bay, increase with amazing rapidity.

SWAT KING AGREES TO BANG THE BALL THREE YEARS FOR $210,000

By DAVIS J. WALSH
(International News Sports Editor)

New York, March 2.—Babe Ruth will be paid $210,000 for the next three years. He agreed to sign such a contract after a conference this afternoon with the management of the New York American League club.

The famous home-run hitter had demanded a salary of $100,000 a year and a two-year contract.

He arrived in New York today from the Pacific Coast and early this afternoon went into conference with Jacob Ruppert, owner of the Yankees, and Ed Barrow, the business manager of the club.

Ruth did not actually sign the contract because no contract blank was available, but declared he would affix his signature to the document before leaving for training camp at St. Petersburg, Fla., on Saturday.

The conference took place in Colonel Ruppert's brewery. Ruppert and Barrow appeared highly pleased at their big star's decision to sign for $70,000 a year, as Ruth had threatened to quit baseball unless he received $100,000 per annum.

The Babe himself declared that everything was satisfactory, and that he was eager to begin training at once.

"I'm going to give the best that is in me, and I expect to have a great year," he told reporters.

Last week in a letter to Colonel Ruppert, Ruth had demanded that he be reimbursed to the extent of $7,700 for fines and hospital bills which he had been obliged to pay. The club had fined him $5,000 following a dispute with Manager Miller Huggins.

Asked about this today, Colonel

CAMBRIDGE CHURCH RECTOR DISAPPEARS

The Rev. Samuel H. Jobe, 62 years old, rector of St. Peter's Episcopal Church, Cambridge, is strangely missing from his home, and police authorities of every city and town in Greater Boston are seeking him.

Fear that he may be dead was expressed to the Cambridge police by some of the parishioners, who appealed for help in finding traces of him.

A theory of suicide, due to a nervous breakdown, was scouted by his sister, Miss Jane Jobe, with whom he lived, and by F. W. Johnson, a member of the church, who declared the clergyman had ridiculed suicide as a means of escaping from life.

He had suffered recently from a nervous breakdown and had spoken

HAYS TELLS FULLER TO 'PRODUCE OR APOLOGIZE'

Challenging Governor Fuller to public debate, Representative Martin Hays today fired another volley in the Battle of Beacon Hill, calling upon the Governor to produce evidence or apologize for calling Hays and Senator Elvin E. Bliss paid lobbyists.

"Just another smoke screen," was Governor Fuller's answering broadside, the Governor saying:

"Representative Hays' attacks are just smokescreens to cover up his refusal to answer my question: 'How much money have you received for representing clients before commissions, heads of departments and State employes?'"

"My time will come; for the present I don't want to say any more," was Senator Bliss' retort today to the Governor's most recent broadside against him, in which Governor Ful-

DENNISON CO. GIVES EMPLOYES $244,000

Framingham, March 2 (A.P.).—The Dennison Manufacturing Company today distributed $244,666 in stock certificates and cash to 2,409 employes as their share in the company's earnings in 1926.

The sum represents one-third of the amount set aside for distribution to employes from last year's earnings and the other two-thirds is to be given later to other workers.

Individual amounts ranged from $60 to $150, depending on length of service.

The sum distributed today brought the total given out since 1921 to $1,625,283.

3-CRUISER BILL SIGNED; U. S. TO BUY 590 PLANES

Washington, March 2 (A.P.).—The appropriation for three new cruisers, put into the naval bill by Congress over the recommendation of President Coolidge, was signed today by Mr. Coolidge.

Preparations to contract for 590 airplanes, at a cost of $12,005,000, to carry out a part of the first annual increment of the five-year air corps expansion program, also were announced today at the War Department.

A total of $21,891,000 for this expansion of the air corps is provided in the appropriation bill signed by the President last week.

The Naval Bill provides for an enlisted personnel of 83,500 men, instead of the 82,000 proposed by the Budget Bureau, and $10,068,000 for naval aviation in carrying out a [illegible] year building program. The total for naval aviation is $22,246,000.

INDICT 26 MEMBERS OF 'SEX' CAST IN CRUSADE

New York, March 22.—An indictment [illegible] Mae West, star of "Sex," W. [illegible] Morganstern, producer, and twenty-[illegible] members of the cast with producing an improper play and maintaining a public nuisance was handed [illegible] today by the grand jury.

Two [illegible] corporations, and two other individuals not yet arrested, were [illegible] named in the indictment. All were cited to appear Friday in General Sessions court to plead before Judge William Allen.

Assistant District Attorney James C. Wallace, [illegible] of the prosecution, and Assistant District Attorneys James C. Wallace and Harold Hastings, [illegible] in charge of the indictment [illegible] are instructed by District Attorney Joab H. Banton to make the prosecution a special one.

New York, March 2 (A. P.)—Improper plays and degrading sex literature could be purged from New York tomorrow if those who call themselves Christians would really practice their religion, said Bishop William T. Manning in mid-day Lenten services at Trinity Church.

HAYS CHALLENGES GOV. FULLER TO DEBATE HIM BEFORE PUBLIC

DEMANDS 'PROOF OR APOLOGY'

ler repeated his charges with greater emphasis.

Party leaders bestirred themselves about the State House to try to repair the damage that may have been done in the quarrel which, some declare, threatens to grow until it jeopardizes the traditional Republican control of the government of Massachusetts.

In spite of their efforts, Representative Hays let loose his verbal volley, in which he said:

"Bluff, bluster and innuendo have never destroyed a man's reputation or character.

WILL DEBATE ISSUE.

"Twice I have called upon His Excellency the Governor to substantiate his unwarranted attack upon me, in which he claims that I am a paid lobbyist. He has been and is unable to produce a scintilla of evidence.

"Again, I challenge him either to produce the evidence or apologize.

"I am prepared to debate the issue which he has raised, with reference to legislators appearing in behalf of aggrieved individuals before State boards or commissions in instances where the interests of the State are in no way involved and which do not relate to legislation on the Legislature.

"I deplore that the Governor sees fit to spend his time belittling the great office he holds.

"If he would devote a fraction of the energy he now wastes in meaningless and irresponsible attacks to earnest study of the State's requirements he might be of some value to our citizenship in solving the problems confronting the Commonwealth.

GOVERNOR MAKES REPLY.

"My one purpose in continuing this controversy is to serve notice that while the Governor may drag his high office down into the gutter, I do not propose to permit him to drag the Legislature along with him."

Shown this statement, Governor Fuller immediately dictated his reply regarding smoke screens, adding:

"That is what the people want to know—'how much?' If Representative Hays will answer that question under oath, naming the amounts, and it is not the truth, I will give the public some facts that will be very interesting.

"As far as the invitation to debate goes, I will debate with Mr. Hays in the month before election anywhere in his district that he will designate."

A bill which would prohibit members of the Legislature from appearing as paid counsel before State boards and departments was introduced today by Representative James J. Twohig of South Boston.

Twohig, a Democrat, introduced a similar measure at the last session, but it was defeated on a party vote, 67 to 139. He would exempt the Industrial Accident Board from the provisions of the law.

Governor Fuller has declared that unless such a bill is passed he will force a "showdown" with certain members of the Legislature.

Ten Harvard Boys Guilty

Three other students of the fourteen defendants for whom defense was put in were adjudged not guilty by Judge Arthur P. Stone, and he also found not guilty the twenty-five men for whom no defense was raised, because police officers had not identified them, as required by Judge Stone.

Oliver D. Ferguson, 23, a junior, of Paducah, Ky., storm center of the affair, and against whom additional charges of assault and battery on two police officers were lodged, was one of the active three found not guilty.

President Lowell of Harvard went bail for all his convicted students. When sentences and fines had been imposed, the "Prexy" stepped up to the bench and informed Judge Stone that he stood responsible for the bail.

This action of the university president saved the youths the necessity of detention while actual bail was being obtained.

PALED AT JAIL SENTENCES.

In delivering his decision, Judge Stone declared that the police went far beyond what [illegible] were called for, and that the [illegible] beating they gave Ferguson [illegible] unwarranted.

The other two active defendants found not guilty were William Cartwright, Jr., of the Harvard Engineering School, a resident of Cincinnati, and Newton [illegible]brook, 21, a junior, of Thomaston, Ct.

"Art" French, Harvard football star, was found guilty despite the comment of Judge Stone that he had the best of intentions in going into the square and [illegible] the police he could calm the students and quell whatever disturbance there might be.

When the eleven convicted men appealed the fines and sentences, all but French were required to put up $50 bail. He was allowed to go on his own recognizance.

SERIOUS OFFENSE.

The faces of the students drew down a bit when they were adjudged guilty, and some paled when the jail sentences were imposed. But they drew themselves up as the appeals were taken and immediately left the courtroom in the wake of President A. Lawrence Lowell of the University, who walked with bowed head.

In reciting the 25 "not guilty's" for the men not identified, Judge Stone declared that some one of them was the student who hurled an egg at Police Officer Pryor while the officer was sounding a riot call.

But the identity of the man could not be proved, Judge Stone said, and therefore he must be cleared with the rest.

"This disturbance went beyond the spirit of youth," the judge asserted in making his findings. "They intended to interfere with an officer in the performance of his duty, and they tried to take prisoners away from him.

"This is a serious offense, and is just as serious an offense in Harvard square as in any other section of Cambridge.

DISBELIEVES FULLER.

"Maybe there was no necessity to call out all the patrol wagons in Cambridge, but they were called out, and whether or not the action of the police resulted in greater disturbance is not for me to say."

Judge Stone charged flatly that John I. Shaw, a student, and Arthur Clement, the civilian, were guilty of "discreditable perjury" in testifying that Shaw needed an escort to go home on the night of the battle.

He also said he did not believe the story of Fuller that he was assaulted by police in the station house.

"I believe Fuller in his testimony allowed his imagination to run away with him," declared the judge.

Steiner and Cunningham, the judge described as "troublemakers."

Describing them as "chicken-hearted and white-livered," Judge Frederick Chase scathingly flayed the Cambridge police today in his defense argument.

Holding up the student defendants as emblematic of "the flaming spirit of youth," Judge Chase declared that that spirit could not be crushed by the wielding of clubs in the hands of police officers who themselves were the disturbers of the peace in Harvard square.

GIVES LIE TO POLICE.

Patrolman James A. Pryor was characterized by counsel as "the coward who ran," and Chase declared that "when the majesty of the law was offended he lost his hat and his head."

In the closing moments of rebuttal testimony today, preceding the arguments, Harvard students gave the lie to Sergeant Winslow of the Cambridge police.

Three students declared Sergeant Winslow of the Cambridge police to be very much in error in his declaration that he ordered one of the 35 student defendants to stop drinking from a bottle in the University Theatre or he would be ejected.

The sergeant had testified in the prosecution's rebuttal that he spoke to one student in this vein; that the one student was Oliver D. Ferguson and that he was seated in the centre of the house.

IN FIRST ROW.

Robert J. Dunkle, Harvard, '27, and living in Strauss Hall, testified, however, that Ferguson was seated in the first row, far to the right, when Dunkle entered the theatre that Dunkle waved to Ferguson and that Ferguson then came and sat with Dunkle.

The second student witness of the day, Henry Wilcox, class of '28, crossed up City Solicitor Peter Nelligan of Cambridge a bit when the city counsel, in cross-examination, endeavored to prove that while Wilcox remembered his seat number on the night of the battle, he would not ordinarily remember the number of his seat in a theatre.

Wilcox testified in rebuttal direct that he sat in seat A-10 and that Ferguson was sitting in A-4. He had known Ferguson for four years.

SAW TIPPLING.

The spectators were still tittering when Clarence O. Tuck, another student, said he saw the police sergeant speaking to the man in the theatre centre and that the bottle tipper was not Ferguson.

Tuck testified that he also saw bottle tipping farther down in the auditorium.

REJECT CRIME AMENDMENTS

Two proposed amendments to the constitution affecting the jury system were rejected today by a committee of the Legislature.

The first one, proposed by District Attorney Robert T. Bushnell of Cambridge, would have reduced the number of jurors in trial of all misdemeanors from twelve to six, except when such cases are tried together with felony cases.

The second bill, sponsored by Representative Roland D. Sawyer of Ware, provided that for any crime other than murder, after twelve hours' deliberation, the agreement of five-sixths of any jury would constitute a verdict.

In murder cases a five-sixths agreement would be a verdict after twenty hours' deliberation, of murder in the second degree.

'Fuller's Full o' Bliss, But Hays Is Yet the Fuller'

The combination of the coming of Spring and the Battle of Beacon Hill today proved too much for one of the House members, and he broke into this verse:

Bliss is full of Fuller
And Fuller's full of Bliss.
Yet he is not so blissful
And there's something gone amiss.

And Hays is full of of Fuller
And Fuller is full of Hays,
And the atmosphere is full of haze
Up on Beacon Hill these days.

When you stop hating Fuller, Bliss
And this also goes for Martin,
Fuller will be blissful
But less full of Bliss than Martin.

So let's not bluster over Bliss
Nor haze poor Martin Hays
Let Fuller all his job fulfil
And stop this fighting craze.

THREE R. I. SUSPECTS ARE HELD AFTER AUTO CHASE

Three Rhode Island men, one of them carrying a revolver, were captured by Quincy police in Norfolk Downs today after an automobile chase of more than two miles. The Quincy police claim the car in which the men were riding was stolen.

"Two Gun" Baker, member of the Quincy force, first noticed the machine when it sped through Quincy square at high speed. Securing the assistance of several brother officers, he gave chase in another car, finally capturing the men on Hancock street, Norfolk Downs.

The men gave their names as Louis Cadinale, 28, contractor, of Terrace avenue, Cranston, R. I., and Caesar Fratzzi, 28, of Cranston, and Frank France, 28, of Providence. Fratzzi was charged with carrying a revolver and Cadinale with driving a car without a license. The men are being held while Rhode Island authorities are investigating.

U. S. GETS 590 PLANES, 3 SHIPS

The largest item is $126,104,404 for Navy pay.

Contracts will call for 508 planes for use by the regular army and eighty-two by the National Guard. Orders will include ninety-four pursuit, sixty-one observation, forty-five attack, twenty-five bombardment and nine cargo planes, in addition to 258 training planes and sixteen ships of various types to be acquired for service test purposes.

The bill also provides for increase after July 1 of the enlisted strength of the air corps from 8,760 to 10,008 men and from 912 officers to 1,100.

NEW WAGE AWARD WILL COST B. & M. $700,000

The arbitration award of a 9 per cent. wage increase to Boston & Maine clerks brought forth a terse statement from the railroad officials today. "If this rate of increase in payroll were applied to all the railroad's employes," the statement said, "it would add $4,000,000 a year to the expense of operation. This is equivalent to $10 a share on the outstanding common stock. When the full details of the award are known, some statement will be made. This brings Boston & Maine wage increases for 1927 to more than $1,750,000." According to the railroad officials, the "amazing" arbitration award adds $700,000 a year to the pay of clerks and freight handlers.

BRUCE HITS AT SEN. WALSH IN 'WET' DEBATE

Washington, March 2 (A.P.)—Divided among themselves, the Senate wets expended some of their ammunition on each other today, but reserved enough for the enemy to keep up a lively bombardment against Wayne B. Wheeler and the dry laws.

In a debate centring around the administration's prohibition organization bill and featured by further allusion to reputed congressional imbibing, the wet leaders waged what they acknowledged to be a hopeless battle to ward off a rollcall.

Besides paying his respects to some of his wet colleagues, Senator Bruce, Democrat, Maryland, called attention to a recent proposal in the House to make liquor buyers equally guilty with bootleggers, and added that if the proposal were broadened to include those who accept gifts, "a large number of this very body will find themselves in jail."

TAKES RAP AT WALSH.

"But I am touching on social confidences," he continued, "and I would rather go to jail than violate these."

Walsh of Massachusetts, Hawes of Missouri, and Copeland of New York, all Democrats, were classified by the Marylander as "supposedly wet Senators" who had made it possible for the Senate to impose on the prohibition bill the cloture restriction which now insures its passage. He added that the State of Nevada had repudiated the Volstead act and that its Senators, too, should have lined up against the bill.

Giving his particular attention to Senator Copeland, one of those who voted fr cloture, he declared he could not conceive of Copeland being re-elected.

WHEELER SWINGS WHIP.

The cloture decision, said the Maryland Senator, was another illustration of the Anti-Saloon League "taking snuff and the Senate sneezing."

"Wayne B. Wheeler came into the Senate, whip in hand, and suppressed debate on everything," he added.

He then told the Senate that enforcement of the dry laws had been a succession of abuses and scandals. Thirty-three persons had been killed or wounded by prohibition officers, and in twenty-seven of the cases no liquor was found.

"A large proportion were shot in the back," he said.

N. Y. LEGISLATURE PASSES TWO "WET" RESOLUTIONS

Albany, N. Y., March 2 (I.N.S.).—Two wet resolutions were put through the Upper House of the New York State Legislature today with flying colors when a handful of Republicans joined with the Democrats.

One calls upon Congress to modify the Volstead Act to permit the sale of light wines and beer in New York State. The other demands that Congress stop the use of deadly poisonous denaturants in alcohol. Both resolutions were adopted in the Assembly several weeks ago.

DUMP FIRE IN MARSH SMOKES UP 2 CITIES

A dump fire on the marshes across from the old Combination Parkway race track in Medford today caused considerable excitement and alarm among residents of Medford and Somerville when heavy clouds of black smoke drifted over both cities.

The vacant land, along an old spur of the Boston & Maine Railroad, was recently obtained by C. E. Hall, a truckman. Today a large quantity of old oil barrels, railroad ties and other rubbish was set fire.

9,000 OF PONZI CREDITORS GET 5 P. C.

Checks for an additional dividend of 5 per cent. out of the Ponzi estate were mailed today from the office of Henry V. Cunningham, trustee, to more than 9,000 creditors throughout New England.

This brings the total dividends to 35 per cent. and hopes are held out by the trustee that still more money will be collected.

At the time of Ponzi's collapse he had the names of 11,000 investors on his books, whose claims amounted to $6,000,000.

After investigating the validity of these claims, nearly 1,500 objected to on various grounds, were reduced or disallowed, reducing the proven claims to approximately $4,000,000.

DEATH DRIVER ARRESTED

Richard E. Collins, 20-year-old truck driver, today faced a charge of manslaughter as a result of his running down and fatally injuring Joseph Giardion, aged 9, of No. 1415 Dorchester avenue. According to the police, young Collins was operating the truck without a license. The accident occurred on Adams street, Dorchester, almost in front of Police station 11.

Today, at the City Hospital, the boy succumbed to his injuries and the Dorchester police immediately went into court to secure a complaint charging Collins with manslaughter. Collins, who lives at No. 390 Freeport street, Dorchester, has been unable to secure bail.

BAUER SEEKS LOAN TO RECLAIM LYNN FLATS

Mayor Ralph S. Through the use of the bulkhead some 150 acres of land will be reclaimed, the Mayor said. City Solicitor Patrick F. Shannon added that the improvement will mean the cleaning up of the flats, which are now a menace to the health of the city.

EAST MILTON MAN FINED FOR ILLEGAL PRACTICE

Hilmer F. Larrson of East Milton was found guilty of practicing medicine without being registered, in Quincy District Court today by Judge McAnarney. He paid a fine of $100.

MAKE IT EASY FOR BOYS TO SECURE FIREARMS

One of the most urgent recommendations of Police Commissioner Wilson, that minors be prohibited from securing ammunition for firearms unless they have a license to carry such weapons, was rejected today by the legislative committee on public safety.

REPORT I. B. S. A. FOR LICENSELESS BROADCAST

Because the International Bible Students' Association radio station at Convention Hall broadcast without a license, Charles C. Kolster, supervisor of radio for New England, today said he would report the matter to Washington for action.

TOWNS DEMAND LOWER RATE FOR LIGHT

Lower gas and electric rates in Braintree, Weymouth and neighboring communities were demanded by consumers of the Old Colony Gas Company and the Weymouth Light and Power Company at a hearing today before the Public Utility Commission.

"Unless the light company treats us a little better," warned Postmaster Charles Tobin of Weymouth, who headed the petitioners, "consumers of Weymouth will ask for a municipal plant."

The electric light rate is 14 cents, with a discount of one-half cent if the bill is paid within ten days.

Tobin attacked the different rates established for light and heating.

"They both cost the company the same to produce," he said.

Rev. Fr. J. B. Holland, pastor of the Sacred Heart Church in Weymouth, suggested possibly there may be "dead wood" on the salary list of the company.

Profits of the Springfield Gas Light Company soared in 1926, according to a report filed by the company with the State Department of Public Utilities today.

The Springfield company's net profit for the year was [illegible], an increase of $59,805 over the preceding year, while the company's surplus was increased $33,610 and the depreciation reserve was increased $20,927.

The Lynn Gas & Electric Company reported a net profit of [illegible], an increase of $9,776. This company's surplus was increased $187,136, while the depreciation fund was swelled to the extent of $151,717.

FIN. COM. RAKES 'BAGMEN' STORY

Charges made by Councillor John F. Dowd of Roxbury that "bagmen" are operating among contractors made at the recent meeting of the City Council, are being investigated by the Boston Finance Commission, it was learned today.

In commenting on 'bagmen,' Mayor Nichols said:

"If I find these so-called bagmen they'll be doing something else when I get through with them. Really, it's laughable to read about bagmen operating in the city. Some city councillors are treading on dangerous ground."

ACTING TOO TRUE

MERRY DESMOND FAMILY
"Bill," Mrs. Desmond (Mary Trevor) and their daughter, Mary Jo, snapped at Universal City, Calif., where he is the star of a new film in the making. (I. N. R.).

MOTORMAN IS FREED IN DEATH

Frank Hardy, Cambridge motorman, was found not guilty of manslaughter in Middlesex Criminal Court today after a jury had deliberated for ten hours over his trial for causing the death of Patrolman John J. Guthrie last December.

Guthrie, a veteran of the Cambridge police force, was struck by an Elevated car operated by Hardy while at his traffice post on Massachusetts avenue and Everett street, Cambridge, on December 21.

He died four days later.

FOUR BELOW ZERO IN CONNECTICUT VALLEY

Springfield, March 2 (A.P.).—Though Spring is officially but three weeks away, the Connecticut Valley stepped back into mid-Winter conditions early today with temperatures ranging to four degrees below zero in some places.

Four above was the coldest found in this vicinity as the temperature rose rapidly under the sun's influence. White River Junction, Vt., reported four below

Romeo and Juliet ◆ Shakespeare's Immortal Romance

"'Tis torture and not mercy:
Heaven is here where Juliet lives!"

Banished for life from Verona, Romeo went to Friar Lawrence for advice. The Friar advised him to wait in Mantua until his pardon might be achieved. Romeo declared that he would rather be dead than parted from Juliet.

"Art thou gone so? My lord, my love, my friend!
I must hear from thee every day."

Under the cover of night, Romeo again stole to Juliet's balcony. As the first fingers of dawn crept hesitant over the east, the lovers parted. For it would have meant certain death had Romeo been seen again in Verona.

"I wonder at this haste, that I should wed
Ere he that should be husband comes to woo!"

Juliet, grieving over her beloved Romeo's banishment, was further distressed by her father's order that she marry Count Paris, a young nobleman to whom her hand had been promised by her parents.

"And in the borrowed likeness of shrunk death
Thou shalt continue two and forty hours."

Appealing to good Friar Lawrence for aid, Juliet was given a sleeping potion which would lend her the appearance of death. Whereupon, Romeo was to return secretly at night and rescue her from the dark tomb.

HARRIS SCHOOL FIRE ALARM

Alarmed mothers hurried to the Harris School, Victory road and Adams street, Dorchester, today, when fire apparatus raced toward the school and two classes were marched out into the yard by teachers.

Both mothers and firemen were relieved to find the fire across the street in the house of Frederick Burstead at No .10 Victory road.

The fire alarm box on the school was used to ring in the alarm by the janitor, Frederick Manning, when Mrs. Burstead ran toward him with a cry of "Fire," and the two school classes were marched out simply to give the children, all of the kindergarten age, a chance to see the firemen work. The other classes stayed in the building until recess time which came before the fire apparatus left the scene.

The fire, believed to have been caused by mice and matches, burned over a large area within the walls and [illegible] through the clapboards in several places. Damage was estimated at [illegible].

SNOW TONIGHT AND MORE SUN TOMORROW

Snow flying in the teeth of a northeast gale is predicted by the local weatherman to hit Boston tonight as an intensive storm, centred early today off Cape Hatteras, passes Nantucket on its way northeastward.

Storm warnings have been ordered flown from Boston to Atlantic City, and coastwise shipping is advised to scurry for shelter before nightfall.

Following the predicted gale and thick weather, sunshine will return to Boston tomorrow and that in turn is expected to be augmented by a Springlike rise in temperature headed this way from the northwest.

Forecast for Boston and vicinity: Partly cloudy, probably with some snow tonight; Thursday fair and continued cold; northeast and north gales, backing to northwest and diminishing Thursday.

HUB CHURCHES OBSERVE ASH WEDNESDAY

Countless thousands of Catholics and Protestants, alike in Greater Boston today observed Ash Wednesday and the advent of Lent by attending religious services.

Throughout the morning Catholics and members of the Episcopalian church received the imprint of blessed ashes on their foreheads. The advent of Lent marks the beginning of a forty-day period of self-denial and self-denial which will continue until April 17.

In the Catholic and Episcopal churches the Ash Wednesday services started early this morning.

At noon the first of a series of lenten services was held at the Old South Meeting House. These will continue every week day except Saturday and are being held under the direction of the Greater Boston Federation of Churches. Dr. Robert Watson, pastor of the First Presbyterian Church, Boston, was the speaker at today's service.

ONE WHO BELIEVES RIGHT.

Dr. Watson's subject was, "What Is a Christian?" "My definition of a Christian," he said, "is one who believes right. What do we need in this crass age? What are the youth seeking? What can save from suicide? What can cure the lawlessness? What can meet our needs, drive away fear, alleviate distress, bind nations together and save from war and give universal peace? Christianity, and Christianity alone. But it must be Christianity understood, accepted, practised by you and me."

The custom of imposing ashes on the foreheads is a symbol of the older days of the Christian Church when sinners arrayed themselves in sackcloth and ashes as a sign of their penance.

Later the custom grew to embrace all members of the church during this period of purgation, gradually becoming modified to the marking of the forehead. The ashes used are obtained from burning the palms consecrated at Palm Sunday of the preceding year.

RULES MODIFIED.

Formerly strict rules as regards fasting and abstinence were imposed on the laity, but during the past few years they have become greatly modified, even as the sackcloth and ashes custom.

Noon of the Saturday preceding Easter officially ends the season of Lent, but many maintain their penitential practices until the morning of Easter Sunday itself.

April 17, Easter, also marks the first day of the Jewish feast of the Passover, which continues for a week in commemoration of the departure of the Jews from the bondage of Egypt.

Hays Chosen "Movie Czar" Over Hoover on Toss of Coin

Bridgeport, March 2 (A.P.).—The fall of a nickel that decided that Will H. Hays, rather than Herbert Hoover, should become czar of moviedom was "certainly a tough break for the picture public," in the opinion of Harold R. Durant of Guilford, who told an audience here he tossed the coin which decided who would be dictator of Hollywood.

Durant, who was at one time editor of Famous Players-Lasky Corporation, charged the motion picture industry, which he said has "always played the picture public for a sucker," with being the surviving exception to the obsolescence of "hogging his business."

He flayed the administration of Hays, asserting he has failed to represent and protect the public

CHURCH RECTOR OF CAMBRIDGE VANISHES

of an unaccountable dread of death, according to relatives.

ON EVE OF LENT.

His disappearance, on the eve of Lenten services, caused grave concern and a meeting was called for this evening to take steps to aid the police in a thorough search. Bishop Lawrence was notified.

The rector, in clerical garb left the house which he and his sister occupy at No. 15 Clinton street, Cambridge, about 2 o'clock yesterday afternoon. His sister had gone out on an errand, leaving him reading.

When she returned his glasses and a book, his purse and his watch and chain were on the table, by which he had been sitting. She thought he had gone to the church, a short distance away, at Massachusetts avenue and Vernon street, but he did not arrive there. Today she sought police aid.

SCOUTS SUICIDE THEORY.

"I discussed suicide with the rector not long ago," said Mr. Johnson, a parishioner and intimate friend of the missing clergyman. "The subject just happened to come up as a result of a suicide reported in the newspapers.

"He told me that no matter to what extent he was driven by financial trouble, physical ill-health or mental worry, he would never resort to suicide."

"My brother has not taken his life," said Miss Jobe. "I think he has sought rest somewhere.

"He suffered a breakdown in health four or five years ago, due to influenza, and a few months ago he suffered a nervous breakdown. He took a long rest at the Episcopal Church Society rest home in Swansea and returned home, seemingly much better.

"So many people know him that he ought to be found if wandering around Cambridge. He has been here for twelve years, having previously been at Bar Harbor. He came to this country from England when seventeen years old and studied for the ministry at the Hartford Theological School. He never married."

Dr. W. C. Archibald, the missing minister's physician, said today: "Mr. Jobe has been physically sound but suffering from neurosis following a mental breakdown. Frequently his fits of depression would react physically and reduce him to utter exhaustion. From time to time, when blue, he would express his fears in a mumbled 'I'm afraid I'll never make the grade.'"

Mr. Jobe had returned to active administration of his parish only two days ago after an absence of five months. The Ash Wednesday service today would have marked his formal return to his pulpit.

Prayers for his safe return were offered during the Lenten service by the congregation.

A thorough search of every hospital, both public and private, was begun under the direction of the Cambridge authorities.

The Rev. Mr. Jobe, widely known because of publicity attending his operating of a unique printing plant in connection with his church work, is five feet, six inches in height and weighs about 150 pounds. He has a smooth face and gray hair.

The printing plant, self-operated, which the pastor conducted, was his hobby. On his presses he printed church announcements in color, displaying rare taste in the "makeup."

He was the author of verse, and such was his facility that he "set" practically all his "copy" direct in type, without first reducing it to manuscript.

NEWDAUGHERTY DATA GIVEN TO JURY

New York, March 2 (A.P.).—After a deadlock of ten and a half hours the jury considering the fate of former Attorney General Harry M. Daugherty and the former alien property custodian, Colonel Thomas W. Miller, on charges of conspiracy resumed its deliberations today.

The jury was deadlocked last night after Federal Judge John C. Knox had repeated a part of his charge at the request of the jurors. He also turned over to the jury a copy of a report to President Harding from Senator Guy D. Goff, made when the Senator was assistant in Daugherty's office, on allowance of the American Metal Company's claim, which resulted in the indictments of Daugherty and Miller.

The jury resumed its deliberations promptly at 2 o'clock after returning from lunch.

BANKER BAKER CRITICALLY ILL

Brunswick, Ga., March 2 (A.P.).—George F. Baker, president of the First National Bank of New York and one of the country's leading financiers, is critically ill on Jekyl Island, where he has been for the past two weeks.

His private physician, Dr. George D. Stewart of New York, said today that his condition was serious.

During recent years he has made numerous public gifts. He gave $5,000,000 to Harvard for endowment of its graduate school of business administration. He gave a large sum to Columbia University for its athletic field, which bears his name.

Friends have estimated his total charitable gifts at $15,000,000.

Anyway, It Might Have Been a Good Holdup

The holdup man in the treasurer's office at the State House today might have been caught if there had been any holdup man.

Watchmen came racing through the corridors with drawn revolvers, and men and girl attaches hastily left their offices for the scene of the excitement when Cashier James C. Bond sounded the burglar alarm.

But he was only testing in a surprise drill.

CUPID GETS IN JAIL TO RUSH UP WEDDING

Plymouth, March 2.—Mildred Nickerson, Plymouth girl, is going to become the bride of a convict behind prison walls, because she believes she can help reform the man of her choice—John F. O'Donnell, who is serving a five-year sentence for robbery.

The romance blossomed within the Plymouth prison while Miss Nickerson was employed as a maid in the home of Sheriff Earl P. Blake and O'Donnell worked around the same house as a trusty.

Plans for the wedding have gone forward with the consent of Sheriff Blake, and today Miss Nickerson told why she decided to marry O'Donnell, even though only eighteen months of his five-year term have been served.

TELLS OF THEIR LOVE.

"I loved him and felt sure I could make a better man of him," she said.

She has quit her job at the prison and is living with friends in Plymouth.

"We talked together when John came over to the sheriff's house to do some work," she said, "and we gradually became friends. He told me that most of his trouble was because of bad companions.

"He spoke continually of being anxious to reform and make good when his sentence expired. I was interested for this reason and often spoke with him of leading a better life when he came out.

MAY WIN PAROLE.

"I talked over his problems with him and it was in this way we became fond of each other. One day he told me if I married him he would be certain to follow the straight path. I told him I would consider it. I knew only good of him and forgot about his being a prisoner.

"I loved him and I felt sure I could make a better man of him.

"Just before I left him, I told him I would marry him and it was only recently he asked if we could be married before his sentence expired. Sheriff Blake arranged it, and I think we will be married very soon."

O'Donnell is a model prisoner, and there is a strong possibility of his being paroled during the coming Summer.

Jealousy Certain to Break Up Homes

JEALOUSY has played its part not only in making homes unhappy but in making wrecks of them.

A home where wifey is jealous of hubby, or the other way around, is already being smashed to pieces on the rocks.

Or, to put it another way, when Jealousy enters the home, Love moves quickly in the direction of the nearest exit.

On the other hand, in a home where there is real love, genuine affection, honesty, kindness and tolerance, there is no room for jealousy.

PRACTICE ECONOMY.

Living beyond your means is another item that makes for unhappiness. Whether the income is large or small, Mr. and Mrs. and all the juniors must make every effort to stay within it.

When hubby is doing his level best to support the family, why in the name of goodness will you insist upon having things you know you cannot afford? The bills will be coming in, the collectors will be calling, and the result must be—unhappiness.

In the happy home, wifey is up in the morning with the tick of the clock and right on time there is a tasty breakfast ready for the man who must go out to another day's labor. He gets a kiss at the door, too, and that helps them both, for while his nose is at the grindstone his wife is happy at home with their little ones.

LOVE IS HOME BUILDER.

In the evening, after Daddy has had his share of fun with the children, they are tucked in their beds and man and wife sit down together to discuss the affairs of the day, and make plans for the future.

In the happy home we never remind one another of faults, failures and disappointments. Everything is understood. We wear the best side out.

A little cot, a small apartment or a mansion on the avenue, homes can be made in any of them. Love and affection are the builders.

(Signed) SUSIE BLUNDELL,
237 Western avenue, Lynn.

Tells Reasons for Home Unhappiness

Today, for the first time since the Boston Evening American began its entertaining discussion of "What Makes Home Happy? What Makes Home Unhappy?" we come upon the first mention of the ugly word, "jealousy."

"When jealousy enters the home," writes Mrs. Edward Blundell, of No. 237 Western avenue, Lynn, "love moves quickly in the direction of the nearest exit."

Every day, except on Saturday, the Boston Evening American pays an honorarium of ten dollars for the letter on this subject selected for publication. On Saturdays, the award is FIFTY dollars. Mrs. Blundell's check is already on the way to her.

In writing Happy Homes letters, please try to express your opinion in not more than 300 words. And do, friends, write upon one side of the paper only. All letters should be addressed to Home Editor, Boston Evening American, P. O. Box 110 Boston, Mass.

While the Boston Evening American is unable to print every letter received they are all read and carefully considered, the effort being to give expression to as many different views of the subject as may be possible. If you have not yet contributed to this helpful discussion, there still is time. If you have written, but have not yet been represented in print, try again.

JERRY TARBOT 'DRAFT DODGER'

Washingtn, March 2 (A.P.).—Jerry Tarbot, "that mysterious character whose identity has confounded veterans' organizations and government fingerprint experts over a long and colorful season of investigatin, today sat in a congressional committee room and blinkingly heard himself described as a draft dodger and a man of divers aliases.

One of those who testified said she formerly was his wife and that she knew him as Howard Francis Noble of Toledo, O.

Another woman witness said she also knew him in Erie, Pa., as Howard Noble, while Chairman Johnson of the committee declared the man's real name was Alexander Dubois, Jr., and that he was the son of a chef in a Cuban hotel.

The committee chairman told his colleagues that his statements would be borne out by records of the Department of Justice, which he asserted had disproved Tarbot's claim that he is suffering from loss of memory caused by injuries in the World War, and had exposed his plea for legislative relief as a hoax and a fraud.

After the two women had testified the chairman put on the stand R. P. Burruss, a special agent for the Department of Justice, who said he had been asigned to determine Tarbot's identity and war record.

HONEYMOON JOY AND LOVE TRAGEDY MARK SAILING

The irony of happiness on sea trips was proved today with the sailing for Mediterranean ports of the Consulich line steamship Martha Washington from Commonwealth Pier with a honeymoon couple aboard and a heart-broken mother tearfully parted from her husband at the pier. The happy couple were Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Johnson of San Angelo, Tex. Mrs. Angela Magula of Worcester was the principal in a family tragedy at the gangplank as she threatened to leap from the ship to rejoin her husband on the pier. Her spouse promised to follow her and their two children to the sunny land within a year.

MAINE GIRL PLEADS GUILTY TO CLEVER HUB FORGERIES

Pleading guilty to larceny of $550 from ten Boston stores by means of a clever cashing check system, Miss Gertrude Drake, twenty-four, of South Portland, Me., was held in $3,000 in Municipal Court today for sentence. Police declare she obtained the O. K. of a floorwalker to each check on the pretense of purchasing merchandise. Floorwalkers supposed they would have time to collect on the checks before shipping the goods, but the girl, police say, got the cash instead.

UTILITY VETO TO PRESERVE HOME RULE

Governor Fuller's veto of the bill to allow electric light and power companies to appeal to the Public Utilities Commission over the heads of city and town authorities in the location of poles and wires, read in the House today, is based on the infringement of home rule for municipalities.

The veto message was filed with the clerk of the House yesterday after the House had adjourned.

"The existing law provides that in case of the refusal of any one municipality to grant locations for transmission line for electric light companies and the adjoining municipalities have granted such locations, the Department of Public Utilities may grant locations in the municipality so refusing," the message read in part.

"This bill provides that the Department of Public Utilities shall have authority to grant locations for poles and transmission lines in any and all municipalities refusing or neglecting to grant such locations.

"While the original law, sometimes called the 'missing link statute' may be a proper exercise of State jurisdiction where there is evident desire on the part of some municipalities for such lines and the refusal of a single community would block such construction, this bill would seem to be going too far in depriving local municipalities in the rightful exercise of their privileges and would be a long step in the wrong direction of taking away home rule from such municipalities."

30 CHINESE ARRESTED; STORM PARIS LEGATION

Paris, March 2 (A.P.).—Thirty Chinese stormed the Chinese legation today, brushed aside the police guard and entered the building, from which they were forcibly driven. Later they were arrested for abusing the police and refusing to disperse.

They said they wanted to register a political protest with the Chinese minister, Tcheng-Loh, but that he refused to see more than two.

2 Remaining Good Will Fliers Hop Off for Asuncion

Buenos Aires, Argentina, March 2 (A.P.)—The main section of the United States Army good will flying expedition, reduced to two planes in Saturday's fatal crash, in which Captain Clinton F. Woolsey and Lieutenant John W. Benton lost their lives, left at 6:25 o'clock this morning for Asuncion, Paraguay.

Madrid, March 2 (A.P.)—Major Tadeo Larre-Borges, Uruguayan aviator, left Casablanca, Morocco, at 8:15 this morning in continuance of his flight from Italy to Uruguay.

Buenos Aires, March 2 (A.P.)—Commander Francesco de Pinedo arrived here today. The Italian aviator left Porto Alegre, Brazil, this morning, continuing his four-continent flight from Italy.

Washington, March 2 (A.P.)—Mrs. Alpha Eldredge Smoot, wife of Senator Reed Smoot of Utah, is critically ill at her home here. Mrs. Smoot has been in ill health for a number of years.

MARINES SAFE IN NICARAGUA

Washington, March 2 (I.N.S.)—A sweeping denial was made by Secretary Kellogg of the State Department today of published reports that some American marines have been killed and wounded in fighting with Nicaraguan Liberals.

So far as the department has been advised by Admiral J. K. Latimer, the American commander of the expeditionary forces, not a single American marine or bluejacket has been killed in any "engagements" with the Nicaraguan revolutionists.

BRITISH MINERS JEER BALDWIN AT DEATH PIT

Cwm, Wales, March 2 (A.P.)—Miners staged an angry demonstration against Prime Minister Baldwin here today shortly after Mrs. Baldwin and he arrived to express condolences for those bereaved in yesterday's mine disaster. The Premier was booed and there were shouts of "Why don't you go down into the mine yourself?"

The demonstration began as Mr. and Mrs. Baldwin left the mine offices, where they had inquired about the progress of the rescue work and voiced their sympathy for the stricken.

Emerging from the offices, they found a crowd of several hundred persons assembled, awaiting them. There were some exclamations in Welsh and then a voice was heard above all the others, crying excitedly in English: "What about the men lying in the black vein?"

For a moment or two the Prime Minister and his wife stood alone in the face of hostility while their car was brought around. Mrs. Baldwin was deeply agitated and seemed on the verge of tears, clutching her husband's arm.

When they had entered the car, she sank back with an expression of pained amazement. The Premier, although pale and also evidently agitated, continued smoking his pipe. As the car departed, there was renewed shouting.

STUDENTS TAKE HALF-DAY OFF TO GREET DOG

The students of Northeastern University, 1,000 strong, will enjoy a half holiday, Friday afternoon, when they will greet their new mascot, a thoroughbred Alaskan husky, which will be presented to the school by Leonard Seppala, famous Alaska dog sled driver.

Seppala is due to arrive at the North station shortly after noon, Friday. He will be met at the station by the students, headed by their band, and with the dog will then head a parade to the university on Huntington avenue, where the presentation exercises will be held.

The dog will be received on behalf of the university by Raymond P. Todd of New Haven, Ct., president of the Senior Engineering class, who in turn will present it to Frank Palmer Speare, president of the university.

The dog which Seppala will present to the university is not one of the team the musher has been using in the Eastern races.

The sponsors of the dog, which has already been christened Husky the First, are six young women. They are: Miss Dorothy Raymond, Dorchester; Katherin Cooper, West Somerville; Miss Mary D. Turner, Melrose; Miss Elizabeth Easton, West Somerville; Miss Annie L. Corbett, Boston, and Miss Mildred Curtis, Jamaica Plain. The sponsors will march with the dog in the parade

RADIO PROGRAM POLL BEGINS TODAY

Starting today the Boston Evening American is conducting a poll to determine what American readers think is the best type of radio program. A coupon will be found on this page. Merely fill it out and mail to the radio editor. If you desire to comment do so as the most interesting letter will be published each day.

Your suggestions as to the best type of program will be carefully compared and the final results will be published as soon as all of the coupons are in.

Does living cost you too much? Look to your kitchen first—and save on foods. Over a million and a quarter women will run their homes better—and save money—by reading the Institute's articles in

MARCH—
GOOD HOUSEKEEPING
—OUT NOW!

Women whose homes you can admire most, usually read Good Housekeeping. Its practical, workable ideas save time, labor and money. You can depend on it to help you, too. In this issue don't miss "Blazing New Trails in Cookery"—"Market Basket Wisdom"—"The Versatile Casserole"—three of its many home-making articles.

Children Cry For Fletcher's
CASTORIA

The Young Mother.

The ills of infants and children should be so well known to the youngest of mothers that a reminder or a repetition of the symptoms of illness seems unnecessary, yet there are some mothers who overlook a feverish condition, a little colic, or a disposition to be irritable. If not corrected they may lead to serious sickness. And to correct them, to bring Baby back to its happy self, is so easy by the use of Castoria—a medicine prepared just for infants and children. It will regulate the bowels (not force them), aid digestion and so bring quiet and rest.

Fletcher's Castoria has been doing this for over 30 years; regulating the stomach and bowels of infants and children. It has replaced the nauseating Castor Oil, so-called Soothing Syrups, poisonous Paregoric and other vicious concoctions in the homes of true and honest mothers—mothers who love their children.

Those mothers will give their babies foods and medicines especially prepared for infants and children.

Proven directions on each package. Physicians everywhere recommend it.

RADIO DIALOG

by WILLIAM RADOS

We have long wondered what type, if any of radio presentation the American public likes best. So not being bashful we decided to ask. At first we asked our friends. This was perfectly all right when we asked some of our friends individually, but when we asked two or more together the fur started to fly.

So safe in our office we ask you which type of radio feature do you like best? The vaudeville at the head of our list on the coupon may mean different things to different persons. By vaudeville is meant many of the short, variety programs; programs which include dialogues skits, readings, dramatics, ensembles and other variety acts. Goldy and Dusty, Weber and Fields, Bugs Baer, Cohen at the Radio and others of the short sketch type are also included in the vaudeville sketch. Do you like this type best? If so indicate by a number 1.

A somewhat freaky night for distance is how last night appeared to us. Fading was everywhere prevalent, but was of the slow, continual type. The signal strength was not great. WJAR, WGY, WMCA, WSYR, KDKA, WJZ is our list. We do not remember picking up WSYR of Syracuse before.

* * *

For a while we listened to WJAR, our first stop last night. The Fairlawn Entertainers presented an interesting, well blended vocal program as we listened to them. With the station coming in stronger than usual and with a slow fading which was not bothersome, we settled back and enjoyed this part of the evening. But as nothing is perfect, neither was the program for they had to sing "Where do you worka John." At least we think they sang it for the announcer told us that "John" would be the last number.

We made tremendous haste to turn away. Poor "Worka John" must be entirely worn out by now. But a hopeful thought strikes us, perhaps that song was the last number!

WGY was also steady, for a change. Someone who talked like a freshly imported Frenchman was telling us that "chez nous" is "at our house," "chez vous" is "at your house," and that "chez lui" is "at his house." While this was interesting we listened because of the musical inflection and pretty manner in which the Professor was speaking. It was quite charming.

* * *

Europe was well represented last night as the next stop was WMCA, coming through very well but with some overlap from the local station. An Italian singer (it sounded like Italian) was singing what sounded like a fiery war song.

* * *

As unusual, KDKA was very weak. But out of Syracuse we heard a banjo and concertina wielded by the "Harmony Boys." It seems that when no other name can be thought of, a couple of entertainers can be called the harmony twins or boys. But while the banjo planked and the boys did their best, WSYR was fading. Perhaps we could say that the planking faded.

* * *

Earlier in the evening we listened to a period of popular music by the Jersey Jigjags. The boys played well, but despite their names we have heard them on the air under other auspices.

For the rest of the evening we remained tuned to the Eveready group. Our final opinion was that it is one of the best groups of entertainers on the air.

DETECTIVE FERARRI ILL AFTER FLORIDA TRIP

State Detective Joseph Ferarri, who has figured prominently in many big crime cases in Massachusetts in recent years, is back at his home in Boston, confined to bed, following an attack of acute indigestion suffered while in Jacksonville, Fla.

Ferarri went to Florida to secure the return to Massachusetts of Raymond Coleman of New Bedford, wanted in connection with a shooting affray among hi-jackers at Dartmouth, Bristol county. Before the officer could start north with the prisoner he was stricken. Mrs. Ferarri hastened to Jacksonville and accompanied her husband home. The prisoner was brought back by Lieutenant Clemmey of the Fall River police.

MICHAEL J. WISEMAN OF SOUTH BOSTON IS DEAD

Michael J. Wiseman of No. 328 West Third street, South Boston, for five years an engineer at the Boston Evening American building, Winthrop square, died at the City Hospital of pneumonia. He was ill only two days. He was fifty-seven years of age. A son, Frank Wiseman, was a sailor aboard the ill-fated submarine S51 and lost his life when that vessel was sunk after collision with the City of Rome. Another son, Fred, is with the United States navy in Chinese waters. A wife, eight sons and two daughters survive.

WBET, NEWEST HUB RADIO STATION, GOES "SILENT"

Unforeseen mechanical difficulties have resulted in a temporary suspension of broadcasting at Boston's newest station WBET. The station gave its initial broadcast Monday night. It was during this broadcast the mechanical difficulties were encountered. As soon as the necessary adjustments can be made the station will resume broadcasting on 384.4 meters.

EDISON TAKES A CHEW AND HITS RADIO A JOLT

By HORACE A. DUNN,
(Copyright, 1927, by International News Service)

Fort Myers, Fla., March 2.—Past his eightieth milestone in life, but still striving to turn out devices surpassing the gifts he already has given mankind, Thomas A. Edison, famous inventor, paused in his work long enough today to give his views on radio, acknowledge he chews tobacco, and predict the talking moving picture never will replace the silent drama in the esteem of the theatre-going public.

Edison looks upon radio in its present stage, at least, with a skeptical eye. He believes its perfection will not come in the near future. It will never be a success, he says, until distortion and static are eliminated.

KEEPS 'EM HOME.

"Despite the fact that radio is far from being perfected and still in its infancy, it is a good thing for those who like it," Edison said. "It is good for young people because it is constructive and gives them something serious to think about and read about. It also tends to keep them at home nights, which is a mighty hard thing to do."

He chuckled as he bit off a piece of tobacco then offered his plug to W. H. Grogan, local radio expert and officer in charge of the Fort Myers naval reserve radio station.

SEES TALKING FILMS.

"About the new talking moving pictures," he said, "it is not new. I recall my first attempts on the project fifteen years ago. We took the voice on a phonograph record and arranged the talking machine so it could be operated from the projection room. The phonograph was in front of the screen and it worked fine.

"But I don't think the talking moving picture will ever be successful in the United States. Americans prefer silent drama. They are accustomed to the moving picture and will never get enthusiastic over voices mingled in.

"I believe the experiments will [illegible] highly successful, though."

300 IN MORSE STORES' DUAL CELEBRATION

More than 300 employes and officials of the Leopold Morse stores attended the annual banquet and dance of the Leopold Morse Company Mutual Benefit Association, held in the new Elks' Hotel.

It was a dual celebration, as the seventy-fifth birthday of the firm also was celebrated. William J. O'Brien, president of the association, was toastmaster at the banquet, while Michael L. Daley, a member of the board of directors, was floor marshal at the dance that followed. Officials of the company who spoke at the banquet included Julius Morse, president of the company; Albert Weinberg, vice-president, and Leon Strauss, treasurer.

Employes, speaking at the banquet, lauded the firm for its record in the life of Boston, having been in business, continuously, within a stone's throw of Faneuil Hall since 1852.

RUSSIANS 99 P. C. FOES OF SOVIET, SAYS KERENSKY

New York, March 2 (A.P.).—Alexander F. Kerensky, who headed the revolutionary government established in Russia after the overthrow of the Czar, arrived on the Olympic today for the purpose of studying American principles of liberty. He also intends to write for American consumption on the present situation.

Kerensky said he thought 99 per cent. of the Russian people were hostile to the Sobiet.

BOY VICTIM OF "HIT-AND-RUN" AUTOIST IS DEAD

Eight-year-old Anthony Riccardi of No. 335 Chelsea street, East Boston, died at East Boston Relief Hospital from a fractured skull received when he was knocked down last Monday night by a motorist, who fled from the scene of the accident at Chelsea and Putnam streets, East Boston.

STOMACH UPSET

Get at the real cause. That's what thousands of stomach sufferers are doing now, instead of taking tonics, or trying to patch up a poor digestion, they are attacking the real cause of the ailment—clogged liver and disordered bowels.

Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets arouse the liver in a soothing, healing way. When the liver and bowels are performing their natural functions away goes indigestion and stomach troubles.

Have you a bad taste, coated tongue, poor appetite, a lazy don't care feeling, no ambition or energy, trouble with undigested foods? Take Olive Tablets, the substitute for calomel.

Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets are a purely vegetable compound mixed with olive oil. Know them by their olive color. They do the work without griping, cramps or pain. All druggists.

Take one or two at bedtime for quick relief. Eat what you like. 15c, 30c, 60c.

SPEED, ACCURACY, INTEREST — NEWS THE DAY IT HAPPENS

WEDNESDAY, MARCH 2, 1927

War Time Resolve Moulded the Future Career of Tunney—Determined to Be Fighter, and Now He Is

MOST of the recitals that deal with my career state that back in my boyhood I got the idea I wanted to become a world's champion, and that from that hour on I never was shaken from the idea and that my pathway led in an unbroken way from obscurity to the top of the fighting world.

But that's somewhat wrong.

Once upon a time a youngster, whose name is not known in the lore of ringdom, dealt out to me such an artistic and decisive whipping in a gymnasium which I frequented in my kid days, that I decided that as a battler with boxing gloves I was a drab and dreary fizzle.

My boyhood days were lived in the Greenwich Village section of New York. The boys who were my playmates were not worse, and no better than the ordinary American kid. But they did like to tune up their muscles and get a lot of thrills for themselves by swinging fists at each other.

And the result was, that if any youngster wanted to belong to that particular gang, it was up to him to learn a little something about "rough-and-tumble" work or plead with his parents to move him out of the neighborhood before he was permanently crippled.

I had my first affairs in those days, the same as the other boys. And I liked it. When I grew a little older, I secured a membership in a gymnasium, as did some of the other boys who had been my pals.

PERHAPS because I concentrated more upon learning, or maybe because I had more natural ability, it was not long before I was regarded as the champion of my own crowd. And, having reached that peak, I began to look around for more worlds to conquer. Being very young, and wholly unaware of the fact that this world is full of snares and pitfalls, I made the terrible mistake of picking out a youngster named Willie Green for a sparring companion.

And then—well, I'd like to draw the curtain over what happened. For just to think about what Willie did, still hurts. It was a long, long time before I could be convinced that Willie hadn't used crowbars and two dozen fists. But immediately after the duel was done, I became convinced that the smartest thing for me to do was to untrack my mind from any idea that I was a boxer.

Just the same I continued boxing among my own crowd, which didn't number any Willie Greens in the group.

THEN the war came. I went over on the other side with the Marines. Somebody in military authority connected with the splendid idea that boxing was an ideal means of relaxation for the soldier boys. And boxing became the leisure hour sport for all of us. Either as participants or spectators.

"If I live through this war, and come out of it uncrippled, I'm going in for professional boxing, and if the chance ever comes to me, I'm going to win the heavyweight championship of the world."

I kept the resolve, the chance came—and today I'm champion.

N. U. Battery Men Report

About thirty battery candidates yesterday reported to Coach Rufus H. Bond, Captain Dan Pender and Manager Nate Gordon for the Northeastern nine's first workout at the "Y" gymnasium. A number of men now working at co-operative jobs, will join the squad next week.

Only three letter men were among battery candidates reporting. They were Captain Pender and Ray Richardson, pitchers, and Neil Mahoney, catcher. Four letter men hurlers expected to report next week are Ernie Stuckert, Hal Somerville, Bob Prowse and Howie Lang. There are also two letter men receivers yet to report, Ernie Ringenwald and Roland Deschamps.

Practice will be held Tuesdays, Thursdays and Saturdays in the gym until weather conditions become favorable for outdoor work at Huntington Field, Brookline.

Larry Ranney, transfer from Bowdoin and brother of Perry Ranney, last year's centrefielder, reported with the pitchers. At Bowdoin he played in the outfield on account of his hitting ability, but he used to be a twirler.

TUFTS BASEBALL SQUAD HAS HARD WORKOUTS

This week is the first time that the Tufts baseball candidates have had any workouts of importance. Coach Ken Nash is on deck and will endeavor to put forth a team that will equal his 1926 team. Nash has been in charge of the Tufts College baseball for the last seven years, and baseball has prospered greatly under his supervision.

This year the Hilltoppers will be without the services of Monk Shuman the veteran pitcher of the last few years, and the man that defeated Boston College last year in one game and held them for thirteen innings in another. Captain Bagley of last year's squad will not be in uniform this year.

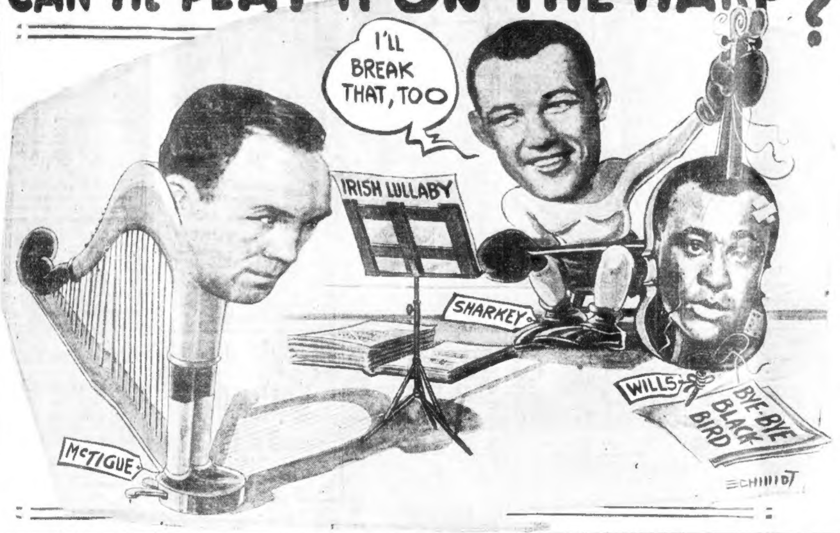
MINOR H IF CRIMSON TEAM WINS TONIGHT

Harvard basketball players will receive the minor sport H instead of the basketball H if the team defeats Springfield this evening and Yale Saturday evening.

In order to receive a minor sports letter instead of the basketball insignia, the Harvard team must win three-quarters of its games. Victories over Springfield and Yale will put the team over the three-quarters mark.

The game with Springfield will be played at the Hemenway gymnasium tonight.

CAN HE PLAY IT ON THE HARP?



BROWN DENIES SLOUGHING CHARGES

"My players were not fined for smuggling, bootlegging or anything else," declared George V. Brown, owner of the Boston Tigers of the Canadian-American Professional Hockey League.

"The players were detained coming over the border after playing at Quebec, but they were not fined," explained Brown. "All the liquor in the car belonged to the porter. Around each bottle was a piece of linen bearing the stamp of the Canadian-Pacific Railroad.

"I am not sure, but I shouldn't be surprised if the players had a suit against the road. The liquor belonged to the porter and the porter is employed by the railroad. I think the C. P. R. is at fault there.

"Why, with one exception, none of my players drink," declared Brown.

"How about the charge that the Tigers were engaged in 'sloughing' games?" Brown was asked.

"I know nothing about it," replied the owner of the club. "I understand that the Ottawa Senators and the New York Americans were in some kind of a mix-up, but that has nothing to do with my team. Why, we're in another league altogether."

President Charles Clapp of the Canadian-American League joined with Brown in denying the charge.

"If there was a scandal in the Canadian-American League I think I would know about it," Clapp declared.

"Right now the Tigers are trying to get into the playoff and they are having their troubles," went on Clapp. "If they get in there they'll get a little money. Anyone charging them with sloughing games is crazy.

"While the Canadian-American League has had a better year than we expected it would in its first season, it is not as yet a great financial success, and nobody has any money to pay players for throwing games," concluded the league president.

The Boston Tigers are at New Haven, where tonight they swing into action against the New Haven club.

Denying any connection with the liquor found cached in their Pullman at Richford, Vt., the Boston Tigers hockey team arrived here today. Manager Edward J. Powers was indignant at the insinuations that his men owned the huge quantity of bottled in bond goods found in the Pullman linen closet.

"I am not denying for a minute that we had among us two bottles of brandy and three bottles of beer," he said. "But the liquor the customs officers found did not belong to us and was hidden in the linen room where we had no access. Although the customs officers were courteous to us they charged us for the possession of five bottles of liquor and seven bottles of beer. The brandy I believe in having with the team when traveling in the kind of weather we have met, but I want it known that we are certainly not carrying 65 bottles of whiskey with us."

DELANEY MUST UNDERGO AN OPERATION

Bridgeport, Ct., March 2 (A.P.).—Jack Delaney, light heavyweight champion, must undergo an operation before he again steps into the ring for a boxing bout, in the opinion of Dr. W. C. Fralick of New York, who examined the fighter after his recent bout with Jim Maloney. This operation will be performed soon.

The Times Star this afternoon quoted Dr. Fralick as follows:

"Following the bout I examined Delaney's condition and then sent him to an X-ray laboratory where several pictures were taken in various positions. The pictures were returned to me the following day and they showed conclusively two complete fractures, one of the left hand and another at the right elbow.

The facts stand out against opinion and this statement is based on concrete facts. Any statement to the contrary is not based on facts as an examination will show. These facts are available at my office and I will gladly show them to anyone interested.

"Delaney must submit to an operation before he considers stepping into the ring again. This operation will be performed as soon as possible."

SHEVLIN IS TO TRAIN FRESHMEN

Hanover, N. H., March 2.—Eddie Shevlin, former New England welterweight champion, now a boxing instructor at Dartmouth, has been appointed trainer of all freshman teams wearing the Green.

Shevlin will follow methods similar to those used by Harry Hillman, trainer of the varsity teams.

"How Can I Play Billiards on Ice Water?"—Grange

Washington, March 2 (A.P.).—"Common red wine of France," (vin rouge ordinaire) as American doughboys were wont to call it, or rather the lack of it, is the only thing that stands between Felix Grange, of France, Europe's premier billiardist, and the world's 18.2 balkline championship, so he says.

Grange, after an hour's practice yesterday, threw away his cue in disgust.

"How can anyone play billiards on ice water," he asked. "It simply freezes me all over."

The Frenchman, who plays Edouard Horemans of Belgium, today, is the extreme outsider for the title at odds of 30 to 1.

FRED MERKLE APPOINTED MANAGER OF READING

Baltimore, March 2 (A.P.).—The Baltimore News today quotes President Billy Ashton of the Reading club of the International League as having announced in Auburndale, Fla., this morning, the appointment of Fred Merkle, former major league star and Rochester first baseman, as Reading player-manager.

MEXICANS WANT WOMEN'S RACE AT OLYMPICS

Mexico City, March 2.—A woman's race of 100 kilometres (67 miles) is desired for the next Olympic games by Mexicans. Chances are that Tarahumare Indian women would win it. They have just taken part in a 45-kilometre race, involving running for about five hours.

CAMPBELL AND DEAN ISSUE CHALLENGE

By SIED CHANDLER.

Jack Campbell of Salem and Tom Dean of [illegible] hereby challenge any pair of golf professionals in the State.

This challenge was issued in good faith during one of the Winter League's sessions in Brown's Golf School and is commented on in these columns as an item of interest in the rapidly waning stove league season, which will carry over into the good old Summertime.

Somebody will take them up on this. Probably the acceptances will come in like [illegible] on the Jimmy O'Connell [illegible].

At the moment Tom Dean first gave birth to the idea, the golf school was occupied by a group which included himself and his partner, George Bowden, formerly of Belmont and Tedesco, and now at Cincinnati, George Beech of Pocasset, and W. H. Penhaligan.

Bowden and Campbell had been engaging in a spirited duel, pitching into the net, and the accuracy of the Westerner was the cause of much comment. The boys proceeded to josh Campbell, whose shots were little less deadly than Bowden's, when Dean suddenly came to his partner's rescue.

"We will not only challenge anybody here," he declared, "but we will challenge any pair of pros in the State to a match to be held either at Myopia or Salem, and what's more we'll win."

"Tom's right," Jack agreed. "The challenge is on."

So it's on.

Ownie Carroll on Deck

Atlanta, March 2.—Owen Carroll and an outfielder named Holland from Toronto joined the Detroit squad yesterday.

LITTLE M'TIGUE MONEY

Jack's Advantage in Age and Weight Puts Damper on Wagering

By JACK CONWAY

New York, March 2.—Jack Sharkey today ruled a 9-to-5 favorite that he will conquer bold Mike McTigue when they battle in a fifteen-round bout at Madison Square Garden tomorrow night.

There is very little betting on the probable outcome of the tussle, as [illegible] the so-called "wise" gentry want to put their money on Sharkey. They cannot figure how the game McTigue can stand up for 15 rounds before the youthful Bostonian, who was classy enough to defeat Harry Wills.

Jimmy Johnston, manager of the Irishman, seems to be the only person who has courage enough to step right out in the center of Broadway and declare McTigue will win.

"Didn't I tell you Bowld Michael would lick Berlenbach ever?" demanded Jimmy. "Well, now I'm telling you Jack Sharkey is in for similar treatment tomorrow night."

JACK'S ADVANTAGES.

The big swing to Sharkey is due mostly to the 10 years' difference in the ages of the boxers and the fact Jack will have a 20-pound weight advantage when he goes to the post.

Quite a few of the boys who believe in "hunch" bets will take a little flier on McTigue. The past six months have been merry ones for the dear old short enders.

Tunney upset Dempsey, Sharkey beat Wills, McTigue Kayoed Berlenbach, [illegible] triumphed over La Barba, [illegible] beat [illegible] and Fuller [illegible] defeat [illegible] Chapman.

Maybe Bowld Michael will step into the ring tomorrow night with another surprise concealed in his right dukes. It is the uncertainty attached to all ring bouts which has made boxing such a popular sport.

Sharkey and McTigue will have up their many other light workouts today. The only blows they will fling will be at harmless punching bags.

The boxing papas have taken official recognition of the Delaney alibi stories. They have gone on record as in favor of ruling all boxers off the course who clutter up the public prints with such silly stories.

SELL-OUT EXPECTED.

Tex Rickard says he looks for the Sharkey-McTigue bout to sell out. The $3.30, $5.50 and $7.70 tickets are already gone. Tex says his big drive is now on to dispose of the $11.11 and $16.50 tickets.

"The $22 tickets take care of themselves," said Tex. "The Wall Street gang gobbles them up. One must attend the big heavyweight battles to keep in the financial swim nowadays."

I might add one needs to be in the financial swim to have the price they ask for a ticket.

Sharkey will get a $35,000 guarantee regardless of how big the house is. He also has the privilege of accepting 30 per cent. of the gate receipts. With a sell-out his end will top $50,000.

Bowld Michael will pull down in the vicinity of $42,000, which is more money than he received for a bout when he was proud boss of the light-heavyweight division.

Mrs. Sharkey is here with her husband and has taken personal charge of his diet. Like Jack, she is confident it is going to be a rather rough evening for McTigue.

Sharkey weighed 189¾ pounds after a workout at Stillman's. This is only a pound and three-quarters heavier than he weighed when he beat Harry Wills. He will probably be at 188 pounds at post-time.

Rickard says that if Sharkey beats McTigue that he will pit Jack against Maloney at the Yankee Stadium the last week in May.

Big Bam Comes to Terms With Colonel Ruppert; Contract to Run Three Years

Babe Ruth, Unknown to Hotel Clerk, May Seek Reputation

New York, March 2 (A. P.)—Babe Ruth's fame apparently hadn't reached the ears of a New York hotel clerk this morning when the Yankee hitter telephoned to make a reservation.

"I don't get you," the clerk replied after the Babe had given his name three times in booming tones.

"B-A-B-E R-U-T-H," — the big fellow spelled it out.

"Oh, you mean the baseball player?"

"Yes, yes, that's me." And Babe got his reservation, remarking:

"It looks as though I'd better go out and get a reputation."

New York, March 2 (A.P.)—[illegible]ing his 221 pounds [illegible] and proclaiming a [illegible] on his $100,000 salary demand, Babe Ruth came back to New York today.

"My salary [illegible] stands where it did [illegible] terms to Colonel Ruppert [illegible]," Ruth told newspapermen after he had been "shot" for several minutes steadily by a number of cameramen, first on the [illegible] platform of the train and later in the gymnasium of his trainer, Artie McGovern.

"It's a business [illegible], pure and simple," the Babe went on. "I want to be reasonable [illegible] has always treated me on the [illegible], but I think I'm worth [illegible]. Evidently the Colonel [illegible] agree with me, but [illegible] get together."

"Attaboy, Babe," [illegible] "you're worth it," [illegible] shouted.

Four special policemen finally [illegible] called upon to clear a path to the street for Ruth.

"What about [illegible]?" someone else yelled.

"Don't worry about that [illegible] still see 'em and [illegible]," retorted the big fellow.

Ruth's new contract [illegible] him a salary [illegible] than that of baseball's ruling commissioner, Kenesaw M. Landis, [illegible] less than that of the President of the United States.

"I think that other clubs in the league should help to pay my salary," the Babe commented. "They all benefit by my appearance in the game, and it isn't fair that Colonel Ruppert should bear the entire burden."

Ruth declared before he went into the conference that [illegible] a one-year [illegible].

"I will [illegible] for two years, [illegible]," he asserted. [illegible] my [illegible] from a motion picture concern that will [illegible] more from a couple of [illegible] I could get in [illegible]. Why, I made $75,000 [illegible] in the picture, [illegible] Home.'"

"I believe I have five good years left in baseball," said the [illegible] slugger. "Furthermore, [illegible] to the coast to make another picture next [illegible]."

Ruth [illegible] that the club [illegible] American League pennant [illegible] of 1926, but he expected the strongest kind of opposition from Connie Mack's rejuvenated Athletics and [illegible] Senators.

"In the National League," Babe [illegible], "I can't seen anything but [illegible] Giants, despite the [illegible] of Hornsby and Roush, [illegible] because McGraw has [illegible]," he said.

N. Y. Golfers Win Honors in Florida

Palm Beach, Fla., March 2 (A.P.).—Three New Yorkers and a Washington player survived the quarter finals today in the annual Palm Beach golf championship matches.

Bert Edwards, New York, defeated O. L. Bralley, Toledo, 2 and 1; Harvey Shaffer, New York, eliminated R. Bacon of the same city, 4 and 3; R. W. Ryle, another New Yorker, won over H. R. Gans, a fellow townsman, 3 and 1.

George J. Voight, Washington, moved into the semi-finals as a continued favorite by turning in an easy 7 and 6 victory over C. F. Cook, Jr., Boston. Voight was medalist.

MORE THAN 300 PLAY BASKETBALL AT HARVARD

More than 300 men are playing basketball at Harvard this year.

With six teams from the graduate schools, four undergraduate class fives, ten fraternity quintets and ten teams representing freshmen dormitories, basketball has taken a firm hold at Cambridge.

It is estimated that with the freshman and varsity squads counted in, more than 300 are playing basketball.

GUS FELIX HAS NEWS FOR THE BOYS

SOX HOLD FIRST WORKOUT TODAY

By BILL GRIMES.

New Orleans, March 2.—The Boston Red Sox—all three of them—hold the first practice of the 1927 season at Heineman Park today.

Manager Bill Carrigan, Coach Heinie Wagner and Danny McFayden, the pitching candidate from Somerville, will don uniforms and toss the ball around just to keep things moving until the remainder of the squad drifts in from North, South, East and West tomorrow.

This initial practise was originally carded for yesterday, but Manager Bill called off hostilities so as he and the scribes could witness the Mardi Gras celebration, which is the red-letter event of the year in New Orleans.

The war correspondents are as in good trim as any of the Sox on hand and are seriously considering challenging the latter to a game today. If we can't beat a trio like Carrigan, Wagner and McFayden, it is time for us to hang up.

MISS SEARS IS SQUASH WINNER

Four Players Win Their Way to the Fourth Round at Union Boat Club

By GEORGE W. GRIMM

Miss Eleonora Sears, Mrs. Homer Albers, Miss Marion Morss and Mrs. Lothrop Withington, all of the Union Boat Club, and Miss Aurine Boyden of the Boston Athletic Association won their way into the fourth round of the Massachusetts State women's squash racquet championship at the Union Boat Club today.

Miss Sears lost the first set of her match to Miss Louise Waterman, 16-17, a brilliant exhibition. Eleonora Sears, however, came back and showed her class by taking the following two sets and match, 15-12, 15-5.

Miss Priscilla Waterman was then buffed off as a contender in the title play by Miss Marion Morss of the Union Boat Club. Miss Morss won in two straight sets, 15-12, 15-10.

Mrs. Moses Williams, one of the entries from Dedham, was eliminated by Mrs. Lothrop Withington. The wife of the former Harvard athlete won in two sets, 15—8, 15—9. Miss Aurine Boyden of the Unicorn outfit had an easy time disposing of Miss Ethel Morse, winning the first 15—0, 15—4.

WOMEN'S STATE CHAMPIONSHIP—THIRD ROUND.

Mrs. Homer Tiber, Union Boat Club, defeated Mrs. Arthur Tozzer, Union Boat Club, 15—14, 15—5; Miss Eleonora Sears, Union Boat Club, defeated Miss Louise Waterman, 16—17, 15—12, 15—5; Miss Marion Morss, Union Boat Club, defeated Miss Priscilla Waterman, 15—12, 15—0; Mrs. Lothrop Withington, Union Boat Club, defeated Mrs. Moses Williams, Dedham, 15—8, 15—9; Miss Aurine Boyden, B. A. A., defeated Miss Ethel Morse, Union Boat Club, 15—0, 15—4.

Baseball Starts at Boston Univ.

Boston University battery candidates will report at the St. Botolph street gymnasium this afternoon. Forty men are expected to answer the first call.

Coach Gaw and Captain Ken MacDonald are enthusiastic over the possibilities of the team. There are veterans at hand for every position on the nine. In addition there is plenty of promising new material.

The veterans will have to fight for their jobs. There are four freshmen twirlers of considerable ability.

HARVARD BOXERS WILL FIGHT TECH MARCH 26

Arrangements are being made for the Harvard boxing team to clash with M. I. T. March 26 at the Hemenway gymnasium.

The annual Harvard boxing tournament will be held at Hemenway gym during the week of April 2.

VETERAN HARVARD BATTERY STARTS WORK

HENRY CHAUNCEY FRANK CUTTS

Star battery of last year's Harvard nine is already hard at work in the cage at Soldiers Field preparing for another strenuous campaign.

MICKEY TO MIX WITH SCOT

Glasgow, Scotland, March 2 (A.P.).—Glasgow probably will be the scene of the fight between Tommy Milligan, European middleweight champion, and Micky Walker, middleweight champion of the world, which Charles B. Cochran has arranged for the coming Summer. The fight will certainly be in Scotland, as Mr. Cochran has found it impossible to secure a large hall in London for that time and Glasgow hopes to get the bout.

The purse is said to be substantial, but not extravagant. Milligan is Scotch and the fight would be a big drawing card.

Mr. Boston Talks with Mr. Sharkey

NEW YORK, March 2.—"Oh, what a headache." There was a ring of sincerity in Mr. Boston's tone as he ordered up a flock of Seidlitz at one of Broadway's drug store bars today.

"The headache that Babe Ruth has given Jake Rupert hasn't got anything on the one the night clubs handed me," resumed the veteran. "I guess the stuff they serve up nowadays is the cause of it all. Why when I was a young fellow I could stay out every night for a week and still step 100 yards inside of 11 seconds.

Mr. Boston

"I want to tell the folks back home that the story about the curfew having put out all the bright lights over here is the well known baloney. They are still using the cash customers rough in more ways than one at the night clubs and making them like it. So as to furnish an excuse for filing an expense account when I get back home, I'm going to slip you the dope on the Sharkey-McTigue bout as I found it.

One thing you can be dead sure of and that is Sharkey's confidence. I met Mrs. Sharkey and her celebrated husband as they were buying a couple of tickets for a show. "How about your fight with McTigue?" I asked Jack. "All I am worrying about in regard to the bout," replied Jack, "is that Mike may die or get sick or something before Thursday night. You know he is a pretty old fellow and might meet with some mishap."

"'Do you think McTigue has a chance to knock you out as he did Berlenbach,' I queried. "He will throw his arm out if he tries to tip me over with right handers," shot back Sharkey. "Have you ever noticed anybody pasting me on the chin with rights?"

"AFTER McTigue; what then?" I asked, most innocently. "They can then bring on Maloney. I have beaten Jim twice and am prepared to do so again. They say Maloney has improved. But what about myself? Don't you think that beating Wills, Godfrey, Riverberri, McCarthy, Huffman and Solomon has speeded up my fighting?

"Don't care how much Maloney

I told Jack that Maloney served in the army and that the doughboys believe they can always sock the sailors around. "Well, after I got through with Maloney the last time he dived for fish," was the quick retort.

TEX RICKARD happened along at his point—"Hello, Sharkey," said Tex. Rickard must have heard some of the previous conservation. "You and Maloney had better give some attention to Paolino," said Rickard. "He is a real fighter, a big powerful fellow with a terrific wallop. I am trying to match Maloney with him for a March 25 date, but Dan Carroll says the Spaniard must first get a reputation.

"I'll accommodate you and fight Paolino after I get through with McTigue," said Sharkey—"All I ask of you is that you line Maloney up for me."

"The Maloney-Sharkey bout will go in at the Yankee Stadium about May 25 if you beat McTigue," asserted Tex—"I think you will take Bowld Michael, but remember that fights are won in the ring and not on street corners. See you Thursday night."

Sharkey soon disappeared into a Broadway theatre.

Inside Golf

By CHESTER HORTON

You never swing intentionally to take a divot because doing so invariably causes the clubhead to take too much turf. If you look at the ball and aim to hit at about the spot where the ball meets the ground your clubhead will automatically take a divot just in front of where the ball rests. If you try intentionally to take a divot your clubhead will usually bite into the ground just back of where the ball rests. It does that because, thinking you must be sure to take turf, you lean forward just slightly with the body, or you reach downward with the arms instead of just swinging them, as you should. The whole idea with any shot is to throw the clubhead into the ball and clear through it. Beyond that you needn't think of anything so far as taking the divot is concerned.

COLD WEATHER HALTS BRAVES' PRACTICE

By NICK FLATLEY

St. Petersburg, Fla., March 2.—The regular practice of the Braves, scheduled for this morning, had to be called off because of cold weather and a raw wind, and it is likely that the practice game carded for this afternoon will also be postponed.

The squad was to have been divided into two teams, and a six-inning game was to have provided the young men with their first real competition. Some half-dozen twirlers were slated to work a brace of innings apiece and have their first chance to exercise their curves and fast ones.

There will be similar conflicts tomorrow and Friday, weather permitting, to get ready for the opening Spring explosion at Tampa on Saturday. The prospective heroes have been working their heads and pounds off down here, and need a dash of scrapping to keep the training stuff from getting monotonous.

READY TO CUT LOOSE.

The infielders and outfielders haven't had much real exercise, but they have boiled all the soreness out of their arms and legs and will be ready to cut loose by the time the week end rolls along. Nobody will be permitted to take any wild chances, however.

Manager Banny thinks his team is shaping up wonderfully and he is mighty careful with every player, even the kids. He had bright hopes last spring, which were wrecked when his club fell apart after a brilliant Florida campaign. David intends to save the brilliance this year for Boston.

Jenkins, Edwards, Wertz, Genewich, Hearn and Mills were in line for flinging experience this afternoon, with the rest of the near-regulars doing the same stunt tomorrow. These young games give a manager his best chance to get a line on new material, and after Sunday there will be mighty little chances for them.

There's hardly a day on the program until the tag end of the month that hasn't an exhibition contest scheduled. It's a cinch that over that stretch everybody will get a good shot.

Principal interest here just now is in the scrap for second base. Little Herbie Thomas and little Walter Gautreau are having a merry time there. Eddie Moore is working out at third and takes so naturally to the spot that he will be kept there, if either of the midgets can show big league class.

If either of the little chaps come through, Andy High would be out of a regular job. But he would be held as a pinch hitter and utility man, and there are very few players in sight, who could fill the role so well. Andy is a good third baseman, but Moore has the ear-marks of a real star.

FIRST CASUALTY.

The first casualty of the season was reported yesterday when Johnny Cooney discovered, via the X-ray, that he had a broken bone on his left elbow. He tried to cut loose with a curve, and the old souper had a jumping toothache, so to speak.

The plates showed a chipped bone, and now Johnny is heading for Chicago, where Dr. Philip Kreuscher will operate, and remove the chip. The same medico performed on Urban Faber of the White Sox, and Charlie Robertson, now a Brave, and both tunnelings were successful.

It is a simple operation, and Cooney will be able to try pitching again inside of a month. Local diagnosticians have figured that the chip hit a nerve whenever Cooney put all he had on a thrown ball, and the bumping kept his arm constantly sore.

KIDS WANT MORE THAN STARS USED TO GET

ST. PETERSBURG, Fla., March 2.—The old-time ball players cannot understand the attitude of the modern holdout. The kids of today, without experience and not good enough, oftentimes, for a Class D club, want more money than the stars used to get when they were great in the bygone years.

The case of Bobby Smith of the Braves is a fine example. Three years ago Bobby was an infielder about to pass out of the big show. He did not have the stuff that a grounder grabber needs in the large scramble. He did have a wonderful arm, so the Braves decided to see what he might do as a pitcher.

Nick Flatley

Bobby caught on late in the year and won a few ball games. He was signed as a chucker in 1926 and was pretty good. He did not set the league on fire by any manner of means. He was offered a raise of something like $1,000. His contract called for more than $6,000 for a six months' job. Not bad for a youth just catching on in the best pitching circles.

But he turns it down haughtily and fails to appear at the Spring camp. He probably will show up eventually, but his holding out shows that he thought there was a chance to get a larger raise.

That makes the old-timers laugh. Manager Bancroft, for instance, drew down $2,600 the year he was the fielding sensation of the National League, the year his playing hauled the Philadelphia Nationals into a pennant.

Dick Rudolph collected something around $3,500 for the season that saw the Braves sail to glory in 1914. Hugh Duffy, who built up the greatest batting record of the ages, never drew down more than $2,600 in a brilliant career. He tried to hold out once for $3,000 after a hitting year of .435 and the magnates laughed at him. So he had to come back.

Baseball times have changed. Nowadays a fairly promising college boy gets more for merely signing a contract than the heroes used to over a tough season.

GOLF PROS FIND MONEY SCARCE IN SOUTH

The life of the journeying golfer in the South is not all filet mignons and cordials. It costs the boys who chase the money prizes plenty to flit hither and yon, and the collecting, save for a small few, is not so good. Mike Brady, who used to be at Oakley, can swap shots with any of them. He has twice been in a tie for the National Open.

He's pretty much on his best game right now. We watched him play four holes at Dunedin the other day, and he reeled off two birdies and a pair of pars. Mike has been in all the big Southern tournaments and has stepped into the money in most of them. Yet he admits he's some $3,000 behind on the excursion.

One or two golfers hit a winning streak annually and come out on top. Bobby Cruikshank and Bill Melhorn will make pretty good stakes this Winter. But most of the gang will have the opportunity for sad reflection when they look over the check stubs.

The big purses attract players from all corners of the lot. Where a hundred play only two can get enough prize cash to make it worth while.

The other 98 per cent. get the exercise. Stars like Hagen can demand guarantees. But the stars are few.

The sensible pro golfer gets himself a job at a Southern course for the Winter. Then he can play the tournaments and have something coming in anyhow. Joe Stein of Nashua, who will be at the North Shore Club this Summer, does very well at Pasadena here. He knows his onions.

Whoops of The Tribe

JACK KNIGHT, who was formerly with the Phillies, has been changed into an overhand pitcher by Dick Rudolph and threatens to earn a regular job for himself. He was originally an overhead flipper, but was shifted around when he joined the Phils.

* * *

Joe Genewich is showing his usual brand of Spring stuff, and should get going this year. He will be worked only once a week, as he has the notion that pitching oftener weakens his arm.

* * *

Big Jacques Fournier gives the natives a treat each day, busting the ball out of the park. He has the range of the right field fence here, and drops three or four in the street every session.

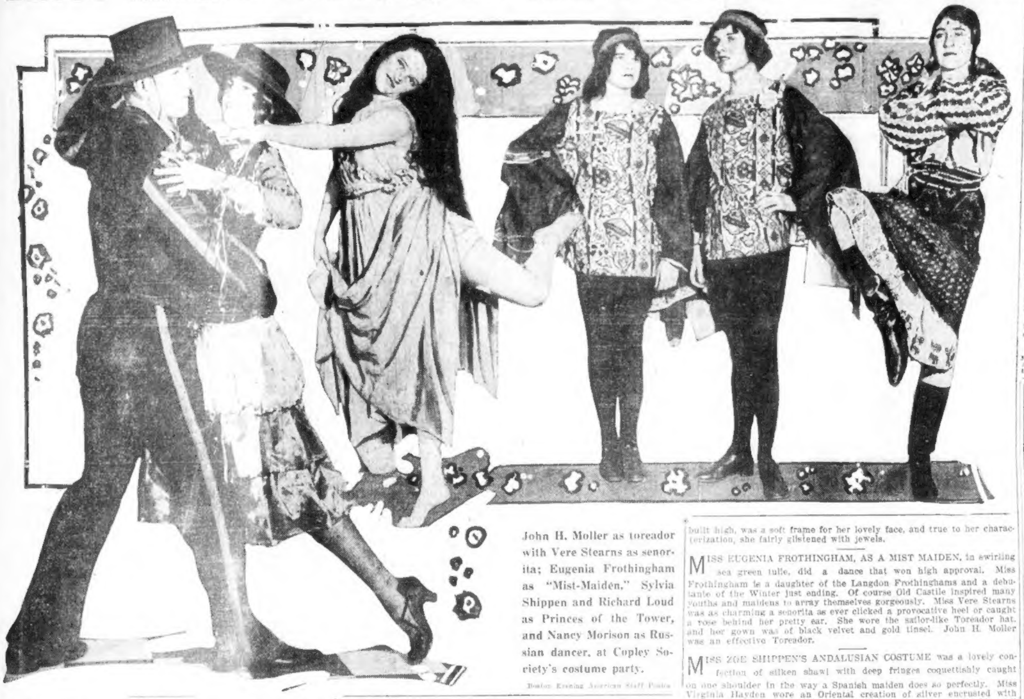
BETTY ALDEN'S COMMENT ON MANY SOCIETY ACTIVITIES



John H. Moller as toreador with Vere Stearns as senorita; Eugenia Frothingham as "Mist-Maiden," Sylvia Shippen and Richard Loud as Princes of the Tower, and Nancy Morison as Russian dancer, at Copley Society's costume party.

Boston Evening American Staff Photo

THERE ARE COSTUME PARTIES, AND COSTUME PARTIES, of course, but for variety and beauty, originality and authenticity in fancy dress it takes an organization like the Copley Society to stage the superlatively perfect costume party of the entire Winter. From Holker Abbott, the Society's august president in his King Arthur robes of deep pile velvet, to the sprightliest nymph in any little [illegible] costume was meticulously thought out and picturesquely expressed. Quite the Grande Dame of them all was Mrs. John Chipman Gray, in rich lilac taffetas of the Jenny Lind mode.

HERS WAS A COSTUME PERFECT IN EVERY DETAIL. The off-the-shoulder bodice had a bertha of lovely ivory lace and there was a cascade of lace on the trained skirt. Mrs. Gray wore a braided hair bracelet with antique gold clasps and eardrops to match. Dr. Calvin Gates Page was the dandy of a century ago, with white breeches and spike-tailed coat, and the topper considered "the thing" for the well dressed gentleman of that period. Winthrop Allen went back even further for the inspiration for his outfit. He wore the rich brocade and powdered wig that Americans forever associate with their famous George, of the time when men's raiment could be as gorgeous as the individual desired.

WHAT COSTUME PARTY BUT HAS ITS DUTCH MAIDEN? Mrs. Joseph Courtney's lace headdress and velvet bodice, her quilted skirt and golden braids were the typical thing from the land of the dykes and the cheeses. Miss Nellie Thompson, with her flair for the picturesque, wore gleaming Liberty satins of aquamarine blue combined with tulle and fashioned into early English lines, a stately creation quite in keeping with her leadership in Copley Society ceremonials. F. Lyman Clark was a Moorish gentleman and Leighton Rollins a Rajah.

MR. ROLLINS WAS IN EVERY WAY THE INDIAN RAJAH of fabulous wealth from the tip of his plumed and jeweled turban to the tips of his beaded shoes. A coat of bright rose silk richly printed in gold was East Indian as could be. Miss Sylvia Shippen in doublet and plumed cap, and Richard Loud in a matching costume, might have been the Princes in the Tower, stepped down from their frame to dance gaily through Shrove Tuesday evening. Mr. and Mrs. Lothrop Stoddard wore costumes that were picturesque and authentic, of course, as is to be expected when such an authority as Mr. Stoddard has the designing in hand.

MRS. STODDARD'S GOSSAMER MANTILLA of sheerest Spanish lace was very lovely as she wore it over a high comb and draping a gown of crystal white satin embroidered in glistening sequins. Mr. Stoddard was a Bedouin chief, with jeweled turban and spotless robes of white. Miss Nancy Vose wore the robes of a Chinese maiden, some treasure trove collected by Miss Vose herself during a world tour. They were of brightest orange satin and matched exactly her tiny satin shoes.

I DARE SAY IN THE ENTIRE COMPANY there was no more perfect costume on a more charming wearer than that of Miss Katharine Warren, a lovely New Yorker now in town to do a series of readings. She is the daughter of Mrs. Frank Warren of New York and Monroe, Mich., and has many warm admirers hereabouts. Last evening she was an exquisite French Marquise in shell pink satin. Her white wig, built high, was a soft frame for her lovely face, and true to her characterization, she fairly glistened with jewels.

MISS EUGENIA FROTHINGHAM, AS A MIST MAIDEN, in swirling sea green tulle, did a dance that won high approval. Miss Frothingham is a daughter of the Langdon Frothinghams and a debutante of the Winter just ending. Of course Old Castile inspired many youths and maidens to array themselves gorgeously. Miss Vere Stearns was as charming a senorita as ever clicked a provocative heel or caught a rose behind her pretty ear. She wore the sailor-like Toreador hat, and her gown was of black velvet and gold tinsel. John H. Moller was an effective Toreador.

MISS ZOE SHIPPEN'S ANDALUSIAN COSTUME was a lovely confection of silken shawl with deep fringes coquettishly caught on one shoulder in the way a Spanish maiden does so perfectly. Miss Virginia Hayden wore an Oriental creation of silver encrusted with brilliants, and her sister, Miss Jessie Hayden, was a Snow Maiden, all soft downy feathers on cloth of silver. Mrs. Horace Morison was Spanish, with elaborately carved comb and fringed shawl. Young Mr. Colin Campbell wore the tartan of his clan, a handsome dark green plaid having a thread of white. He was a true Highland laddie.

MISS NANCY MORISON WORE A MARVELLOUSLY STITCHED and beaded costume, more than a century old, brought from Ukrainia in which to do a Russian dance. It had long Russian boots of bright scarlet leather, and the cross-stitch design of the gown was principally in the same bright crimson. Pleasant earrings and countless strands of bright-tinted beads gave a barbaric note. Miss Margaret Coburn, who accompanied Miss Morison, was in Rumanian peasant costume picturesquely colorful. Langdon Mathews did a futurist dance in a futurist costume, and both expressed the modern spirit of jazz to the last syncopation.

"SIMON CALLED PETER" GOES ON IN SOMERVILLE

Despite the strong opposition of clergy and civic leaders in Somerville, the play "Simon Called Peter" will be continued at the Somerville Theatre for the remainder of the week. When the opposition to the show reached its zenith, it was reported that the management intended discontinuing the show. This report was without foundation.

FUND RAISED FOR ORGAN PLAYER GOES TO FAMILY

399,121 SPLIT CONTROL OF PHONE STOCK

New York, March 2 (A.P.)—Ownership of the American Telephone & Telegraph Company is so widely distributed that no individual or small group has a controlling interest in the company whose stockholders numbered 399,121 at the end of 1926, says President Walter Gifford in his annual report made public today.

The average number of shares held per stockholder is now 26.6 and no stockholder owns as much as 1 per cent. of the total stock outstanding.

The report shows that the investment of the company with its associated companies increased over $318,000,000 during the year and total assets are now over $3,156,000,000. Net earnings for 1926 were $204,870,000.

During 1926 there were 781,000 telephones added to the number owned and operated by the system.

ELEVATOR MAN PROMISED ALL SEARLES' CASH

New York, March 2 (A.P.)—Angelo Milton Ellison, former elevator operator, testified in court today that the late Edward F. Searles, Methuen, Mass., recluse, promised to leave him his entire estate, estimated at between $15,000,000 and $20,000,000.

When Searles died in 1920 Ellison was cut off with $10,000 and the residuary estate was left to Arthur T. Walker, Searles' secretary.

"My boy," Ellison quoted Searles as having said one day when he was not feeling well, "I may kick off any day. I want you to know that if anything happens to me you will be my heir. My boy, you have been a true and affectionate son to me. I will leave all my estate to you."

Ellison is suing Walker and Lewis L. Delafield, who drew the Searles will, charging undue influence.

The former elevator operator testified he told Walker about Searles' alleged promise and Walker said "Yes, that is true. I know all about it."

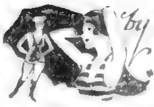
The HOLLYWOOD GIRL



by BEATRICE BURTON
Author of "The LOVE WRECKER"

Adventures of a Girl From New England in the Movie Colony

READ THIS FIRST

BOBBIE RANSOM, Dedham school teacher of 23, is movie mad. For years she has been dreaming of going to Hollywood to break into pictures.

Her father and her maiden AUNT GERTRUDE refuse to lend her a cent to go to Hollywood. So does ANDREW JERROLD, who's in love with her and wants to marry her.

Then, a certain MRS. BURRAGE ordered to California for the Winter, wants a teacher to go with her to take care of her little girl, Jean. Bobbie accepts the place when she hears that Hollywood is the place where she is going to spend the Winter.

The day before she and Mrs. Burrage are to leave a telephone message comes from Mrs. Burrage. Aunt Gertrude takes it, and comes back to Bobbie, who is packing her trunks. Mrs. Burrage has changed her mind and is not going to Hollywood, after all.

After hearing the bad news, Bobbie happens to bump into MRS. PARKINS, a pretty well-to-do widow with whom her father is in love. Mrs. Parkins lends Bobbie the money.

Aunt Gertrude tells him who lent Bobbie the money. Aunt Gertrude has no use for the Widow Parkins, and is glad of a chance to turn Mr. Ransom against her.

On a sunny afternoon Bobbie, thrilled to the ends of her toes, arrives in Hollywood and taxis to an address where rooms to rent with "kitchen privileges" have been advertised.

WHAT HAS GONE BEFORE

Luke Jefferies, walking along a London street, is asked by Mary Vickers to come into her father's house. The father is dying and seeks someone to whom he can entrust a mission. He explains that Abraham Steel, an old friend, has discovered a substitute for petrol. Agents of a powerful oil syndicate are seeking the formula. Vickers is trying to protect Steel. He offers Jefferies a big reward if he will take his place. As he dies he warns him against Monsieur Carnifex, whom he brands as a traitor. Mary goes to live with Madge Aldhouse and Jefferies meets her and her brother, Jack Enderby. They make a midnight dash to Steel's house in the country. He is in fear of his life. Late in the evening Steel is murdered, but he tells Jefferies where his papers are.

The man who killed Steel reports to Carnifex that the dying inventor imparted his secret to Jefferies.

Jefferies calls on Curwen Brown of the Foreign Office, who promises his assistance in trailing down the conspirators.

Jefferies calls upon Carnifex who offers him twenty thousand pounds for the secret.

Too Late, Luke Jefferies Tries to Shut Out His Assailants

"You planned to betray us?"

After dinner Mary sang.

Jefferies tries to shut out his assailants

CHAPTER XIV.

TWO days after the unsuccessful search for Mrs. Rake, Luke Jefferies was strolling [illegible] across St. James' Park.

He was aroused from his reflections by a [illegible] [illegible] [illegible], seemingly almost in his ear.

He saw the girl every day now of necessity, and [illegible] was growing up [illegible] [illegible] part was [illegible] [illegible] man, and [illegible] a loyalty [illegible] [illegible] side extra [illegible] were aroused [illegible] of indifference [illegible] concealed from a penetrating observer. Mary Vickers aroused in Jefferies [illegible] since [illegible] ten desires were awake [illegible] and he strove to [illegible] they should swell to giant proportions and their dominance [illegible] overwhelm him utterly [illegible] crucified [illegible] at the bare idea of [illegible] such experience.

An interval of idleness had reawakened in him a passion for adventure. He longed for excitement if only to help him to forget the memories that Mary Vickers had rekindled in his soul.

"A fine morning, Mr. Jefferies. Are you meditating on the difficulties of [illegible] unemployment problem?"

Jefferies turned, and saw Monsieur Carnifex beside him. Carnifex was resplendent in a huge coat [illegible] a fur collar that [illegible] a man of his size and [illegible] [illegible]

Jefferies [illegible]

There was a steel in the [illegible] [illegible] relaxed. Jefferies [illegible]

Carnifex's [illegible] [illegible] danger [illegible]

"So," he said, with something like a snarl. "It is true then. You plan to betray us."

"I don't know what you mean by betray," drawled Jefferies. "I betray no one. I have a certain commodity to sell. You have been [illegible] time coming forward although I gave [illegible] the [illegible] offer. I was now [illegible] what the British government does.

'I May as Well See What They Say,' Said Luke

"The British government?" Carnifex looked as though he would spit contemptuously. "The British government will do nothing. Your grand [illegible] [illegible] ing rooms [illegible] Whitehall [illegible] learn of your [illegible] [illegible] a fool."

"Perhaps," said Jefferies [illegible] fully. "Still, I may as well see what they say. I am still open to an offer from you [illegible] [illegible] will wake [illegible]

"You [illegible] [illegible] British government [illegible] [illegible] They had [illegible] years ago."

"They may [illegible] [illegible] [illegible] if they [illegible] consider it worth [illegible]"

Carnifex stopped [illegible]. His face was very white [illegible] his eyes smouldered like hot coals. The [illegible] was [illegible] with the depths of his emotions.

"Listen to me," he said in a scarcely above a whisper. "If I thought you would sell [illegible] to anyone besides ourselves I would kill you now without a moment's hesitation."

He stared at Jefferies and Jefferies, looking steadily back at [illegible], saw that the other meant precisely what he said.

Carnifex turned abruptly, and strode away across the Park. Jefferies sauntered on. His pace was unhurried, but he was thinking rapidly. Actually it had not been his intention to call upon Curwen Brown, and now he wondered whether he had [illegible] in deceiving Carnifex. The Austrian appeared to suspect that he had seen Curwen Brown or perhaps he knew definitely. It was up to him, Luke Jefferies, to proceed more warily or perhaps he would [illegible] a [illegible] [illegible] the [illegible] for the enemy.

That evening Jefferies dined in [illegible] with Madge A[illegible] [illegible] brother, and Mary [illegible]. After dinner there was [illegible]. Mary sang again, and it was [illegible] [illegible] the house.

Jefferies [illegible] as he [illegible] [illegible] [illegible] to [illegible] themselves [illegible] the semi-obscurity [illegible] [illegible] were wishing [illegible] [illegible] [illegible], and Jefferies stood [illegible] time, watching them [illegible]

[illegible] Mary Vickers [illegible] Providence, he [illegible] [illegible] [illegible]

It Was Very Late When He Entered the Hotel

It was very late when he entered the Hellespont Hotel.

He entered the elevator and indicated the floor he required, and as he did so he [illegible] the attendant was a man he had not seen before.

The man closed the gates with a snap, and then, to Jefferies' surprise, the lift, instead of rising, dropped swiftly downwards.

Thinking a mistake had occurred Jefferies glanced at the attendant beside him, and then as he noted the man's expression, Luke Jefferies became alert and ready.

The lift shot past three basement floors and came to rest while the attendant unlocked the lift gates. There came a soft whistle and a rush of feet. Half a dozen men emerged from a stone-flagged corridor that led to the wine-cellars of the Hellespont Hotel.

With that [illegible] Luke Jefferies threw off the burden of his thoughts and awoke to [illegible]. One long arm shot out and [illegible] the lift attendant, holding him in a grip of steel. At the same time Jefferies tried to close the lift gates, but he was too late; a big sallow-faced man had thrust his foot in the aperture.

Through the interstices of the lift gate another man thrust at Jefferies' face with a knife, whilst others pressed behind [illegible] seeking [illegible] [illegible] for attack.

Jefferies changed his tactics. With a sudden [illegible] he lifted the lift attendant from the ground, then stepping back and holding the man as a shield he thrust the writhing body hard against the lift gates. The man he held screamed with pain, and Jefferies laughed savagely at the sound.

Still, the sallow-faced man's foot was in the crevice, and slowly, despite Jefferies' efforts, the lift gate began to open. [illegible] the steel lattice work was sliding back and it came to Jefferies with a kind of dispassionate clarity that he was caught here in this box of a lift and was likely to meet his end. There was no time to get the lift key from the man he held before him, no time to do anything but hold on grimly to that slowly opening gate.

The struggle was all the more sinister in that it was carried on in absolute silence. Except for the liftman's scream of pain there had been scarcely a sound. Now and again there came the panting breath of the attackers, and once a whispered order in some foreign tongue from [illegible] [illegible] seemed to be [illegible]

RHYMING OPTIMIST

By ALINE MICHAELIS

HOW strange that I have never given thanks to her who taught me all I know of good, who showed me beauty in life's common ranks and shaped my being into grateful mood! Today I saw a rosebud in the sun and thought flew back to that first rose I knew, I found her image and the rose were one, for memory had so entwined the two. Tonight I heard an artless, well-loved song, tonight I saw the crescent moon swing low; on song's sweet notes her voice was borne along, her smile was shrined within the crescent's glow. How strange . . . yet is it strange that I have failed to offer thanks for all of good I own? When have men thanked the stars that gleamed and paled, or thanked the sun that on their pathway shone?

DAILY SHORT STORY

MISTRESS MARY

By Louise P. Armstrong

A LITTLE boy sang [illegible] and Dolly Winston, walking into town by the north road, paused to smile in mischievous delight.

There was a big hedge along the roadside just at this point, surrounding the extensive estate of Miss Mary [illegible] Osgood, a rich and eccentric old maid who lived [illegible] and [illegible] trespassers within her bounds. [illegible] signs of warning and [illegible] she kept a fierce dog.

[illegible]

"Goodness," [illegible] what's happened to you?"

The boy sat up [illegible]

[illegible]

[illegible] to regard his patron indignantly.

"That there rod came all the way from Nu Yawk! Ain't no good rods about here."

"Well, she was mean to take it," Dolly exclaimed. "And you say you weren't doing any harm? Just digging a few worms? Look here, [illegible] give the rod back to you."

[illegible]

"But I [illegible]

At first [illegible] and [illegible] after.

[illegible] velvet [illegible]

[illegible] Miss Osgood [illegible]

[illegible] here, and—it's—well, it's a valuable pole." She faltered over the last words, rather disconcerted by the penetrating gaze of the old woman.

Miss Osgood, without a word in response, turned again to her flower-beds. "Put the new bulbs in that trench, Jones," she said to the old man. "Then set the new ones farther out. [illegible] of the quality of the old, and 'it'll be easier to re-[illegible]

[illegible]

Miss Osgood's eyes [illegible] "Who [illegible] to tell me what I've [illegible]?" she asked. [illegible]

[illegible] "Well, go," she stated, "when you've given back that fishing pole."

Miss Osgood turned to the servant. "Loose the dog, Jones!" she ordered briefly.

Dolly smiled and her lip curled, then turning to the old man who stood rolling the whites of his eyes in anxiety, she said, "Jones, you'll do no such thing! What do you think Tom Winston would say if you set the dog on his wife?"

The old man trembled, shuffled his feet, but did not move.

"Don't blame Jones," Dolly told Miss Osgood in a dangerously sweet tone. "You see, Jones and I are old friends. He's known me since I was born. And besides he worked as janitor in the building where [illegible] his office. Now Jones [illegible] fishing pole, and [illegible] friend and I [illegible]

The old negro hesitated for an instant longer, then turned and made his way to the rear of the house.

There was a dreadful silence. Old Miss Osgood stared at Dolly Winston, a picture of outraged dignity, and wrath. Dolly looked at her [illegible] then turned to smile reassuringly at the boy.

"So you're the girl who married Tom Winston?" the old woman said finally. "And you choose this means of forcing your way upon me? Well, Miss, you'll gain absolutely nothing by doing so."

Dolly regarded her protagonist gravely. Just here Jones turned the corner of the house. In his hand he held the fishing pole. The little boy gave a whoop and seized it from him, hugging it in delight.

Then Dolly laughed. "Oh, yes I have," she retorted. "We got the fishing pole—exactly what I came for. And now good-bye, Miss Osgood! May the beauty of your garden give you a kindlier feeling toward your neighbors!" And she passed down the pebbled path. "I'll go out by the gate," she called back. "The hedge is rather hard on sheer silk hose!"

"And you really told her all that?" asked Tom Winston, as Dolly snuggled beside him on the couch after dinner, recounting her day's experiences, dramatically, as was her wont.

"I did," replied his [illegible] wife, and [illegible] "[illegible] Tom, you [illegible] old Jones. He walked off with us to the gate, escorting me as if I were a princess, opening it for me and saying 'Good-bye, Miss Dolly, I'm glad you came,' while the old woman [illegible] after us. I hope she didn't [illegible] him."

"No," replied her husband [illegible]. "She's always been fond of Jones at least. [illegible] when he left for a while to work in town. You know how restless darkies get sometimes, wanting a change of environment. She wasn't satisfied until she had him back. Jones knows how to humor her whims, put up with her tantrums. But now she'll have a new grudge against me, Dolly."

"She won't have a new grudge against you, Tom," Dolly contradicted. "Indeed, I believe that sometime she'll come down off her high horse and be [illegible]. Yet why did she and your father quarrel, Tom?" she asked curiously.

"Yes," he replied. "They never did get on. She is stubborn and fiery—he was stubborn and cold. And she couldn't stand boys, so naturally she's never had an interest in me."

"Well, she may have, after all," remarked Dolly thoughtfully, "for you're her nephew, her only living relative, Tom."

"Funny," observed her husband, with a twinkle in his eye, "funny how you take up for her now, after the roasting you gave her this afternoon! And that kid calling her 'Contrary Mary'—that was enough to make her [illegible]! Father said he used to call her that."

"I don't [illegible]," Dolly commenced, "[illegible] have ever [illegible]

[illegible]

As Dolly [illegible] and [illegible] retort [illegible]

[illegible]

Dolly [illegible] meet her. "Why, my [illegible] Aunt Mary."

For an instant the old lady [illegible] then she [illegible] into a hearty laugh [illegible] Dolly affectionately [illegible] and kissed the bewildered Tom.

"Tom Winston!" she cried, "I'm provoked with myself for not having taken the trouble to see the kind of wife you'd married. And to think that I only met her by accident! Why, she's a charming girl, and I feel we're going to be great friends! She has spunk—and that's what I like! Walking in this evening and ordering my servant about as if she owned the place—little vixen!" She went over and pinched Dolly's cheek.

"Take your aunt's things, Tom," commanded Dolly. "And dismiss her car. Now that she's here, she'll stay the night with us!"

And to Tom Winston's amazement—his aunt remained!

MEDBURY SAYS---

By JOHN P. MEDBURY

WHILE work and courage are wonderful recipes for success, fruit has helped many a person to become famous.

THOUSANDS of years ago Eve and her boy friend startled the world by eating an apple.

THE press immediately took it up and all the fig leaves carried big headlines.

WHILE there weren't supposed to be any vehicles in those days, the good book says they were driven out of Paradise.

THIS may have been a disgrace, but it was better than walking.

THOUSANDS of years later business became bad with a fellow named William Tell, so he stepped out and got himself some publicity by shooting an apple off his son's head.

EVERYBODY had great faith in Mr. Tell's marksmanship except junior, and he wanted his father to use a watermelon.

THE old man insisted that the fruit be a grape, but after much arguing they finally compromised on an apple.

WHILE they didn't get as much notoriety as Adam and Eve, they at least didn't have to leave town.

THE next fellow to realize the publicity value of fruit, was George Washington. George wanted to be different, so instead of destroying one apple, he went out and chopped down a whole cherry tree.

WHEN his father asked him if he was guilty, he said, "Yes, papa, I can't tell a lie, I did it with my hatchet." But George did tell a lie, it wasn't his hatchet.

THIS isn't supposed to be known, so people who happen to read this are asked to keep it to themselves.

WASHINGTON became famous overnight, and while cherries were immortalized, hatchets were forgotten until Carrie Nation popularized them again several years later.

SHE made a name for herself by letting fruit trees alone and chopping down doors and windows.

THIS was hard work, but it got her a little more publicity than if she'd shot her husband.

A FEW months ago, reading a history book one evening, was a man by the name of Browning. These different stories set him thinking. If other men could obtain notoriety from fruit, so could he.

HIS case is also history now. Discarding apples, grapes and cherries, he finally got himself into the limelight with Peaches.

A WIFE'S MEDITATIONS---BY HELEN ROWLAND

A MAN is not getting old until he begin to think of his heart as a physical organ instead of as an emotional index.

The "dangerous age" of woman seems to have dropped, all of a sudden, from forty-seven to seventeen. But the "dangerous age" of man continues to run along from fifty to the wheel-chair decade.

* * *

Knock-knees and a vaccination scar never worried a girl, ten years ago. Now they are the two greatest calamities than can darken her life.

* * *

Most men's love-making is as left-handed and unconvincing as the first performance of an amateur play by the Sunday-School-Junior League.

* * *

"All women are alike!" sighs the Cynic—and then proceeds to make love to one woman after another, "just for the sake of variety."

* * *

At twenty a man is acutely aware of his heart; but at fifty he realizes that he has also a digestion, a liver, a full set of nerves and a blood count. Still, as long as his "knee-kicks" are normal he sees no reason why he should settle down and "watch his step."

* * *

Nowadays, the only way a girl seems to be able to keep a man's mind on her, is by using the "follow up" system, and reminding him at regular intervals, by telephone or letter, that she is still on earth.

A Mother, Her Child, and One Dime!

Easy to Keep the System Sweet at Any Age

Many people who never have to take a laxative eat a candy cascaret now and then. Do you know why?

They have found that cascara sweetens the whole system—brings an immaculacy of person that means everything. It prevents bodily chemistry from ever making one unconsciously offensive to others. And what a perfect regulator of the bowels!

Salts affect the lining of the bowels. Mineral oils leave a coating that the blood must carry off through the pores. How much better to cascarize the system, and cause the bowels to expel everything by normal muscular contraction! To say nothing of the cleaner, sweeter condition that lasts for days—a wholesome condition that makes the use of deodorants quite unnecessary in January or July! Men and women whose years have brought on sluggishness often find that a cascaret only once a week is all the tonic they needed.

Cascara is splendid for children, too, and they love the taste of this candy laxative which every drugstore has for 10c and 25c.

"HOW INNOCENT a drug can be—and how helpful! I'm done with purgatives that leave even a child's system so acid you can detect it in the perspiration. A little cascara is a perfect sweetener, and my boy and I both love the candy—

Home-made Remedy Stops Cough Quickly

Finest cough medicine you ever used. Family supply easily made. Saves about $2.

You might be surprised to know that the best thing you can use for coughs, is a remedy which is easily prepared at home in just a few moments. It's cheap, but for results it beats anything else you ever tried. Usually stops the ordinary cough or chest cold in 24 hours. Tastes pleasant—children like it.

Pour 2½ ounces of Pinex in a pint bottle; then fill it up with plain granulated sugar syrup. Or use clarified honey instead of sugar syrup, if desired. Thus you make a full pint—a family supply—but costing no more than a small bottle of ready-made cough syrup.

And as a cough medicine, there is really nothing better to be had at any price. It goes right to the spot and gives quick, lasting relief. It promptly heals the membranes that line the throat and air passages, stops the annoying throat tickle, loosens the phlegm, and soon your cough stops entirely. Splendid for bronchitis, hoarseness and bronchial asthma.

Pinex is a highly concentrated compound of Norway pine extract and palatable guaiacol, famous for healing the membranes.

To avoid disappointment ask your druggist for "2½ ounces of Pinex" with directions. Guaranteed to give absolute satisfaction or money refunded. The Pinex Co., Ft. Wayne, Ind.

Look at Child's Tongue if Sick, Cross, Feverish

Hurry, Mother! Remove poisons from stomach and bowels

Give "California Fig Syrup" at once if bilious or constipated

Look at the tongue, mother! If coated, it is a sure sign that your little one's stomach, liver and bowels need a gentle, thorough cleansing at once.

When peevish, cross, listless, pale, doesn't sleep, doesn't eat or act naturally, or is feverish, stomach sour, breath bad; has stomach-ache, sore throat, diarrhoea, full of cold, give a teaspoonful of "California Fig Syrup," and in a few hours all the foul, constipated waste, undigested food and sour bile gently moves out of the little bowels without griping, and you have a well, playful child again.

You needn't coax sick children to take this harmless, "fruity laxative;" they love its delicious taste and it always makes them feel splendid.

Ask your druggist for a bottle of "California Fig Syrup," which has directions for babies, children of all ages and for grown-ups plainly on the bottle. Beware of counterfeits sold here. To be sure you get the genuine, ask to see that it is made by the "California Fig Syrup Company." Refuse any other kind with contempt.

AM. TELEPHONE HOLDINGS OF N. E. COMPANY UP

American Telephone Co. has been gradually increasing its proportion of New England Telephone stock. At close of 1926 the parent organization owned $68,589,300 stock of the New England company, which is practically 62 per cent of the whole amount outstanding. This compares with $65,819,000 held as of Dec. 31, 1925, or 59.68 per cent. of the total. In other words, the increase during the year was $2,770,000 par value.

At end of 1924 American Telephone owned only 58 per cent. of the New England stock, or $48,154,700 par value of the $83,025400 total issued. In 1925, however, the local company increased its capital by a 33 1-3 per cent. stock subscription. American Telephone always takes its proportion of the new stock issues of subsidiary companies.

GRATON & KNIGHT TO CUT DOWN BANK DEBTS

Stockholders of Grafton & Knight Co., meeting in Worcester, voted to issue $1,750,000 5½ per cent. sinking fund gold mortgage bonds maturing March 1, 1947, the net proceeds to be applied to reducing the company's indebtedness to the banks.

There was no change made in the board of directors or officers, all being re-elected.

BOSTON BANK STOCKS SELL GENERALLY UP

X-RAY

Examination, consultation, trial treatment and medicine absolutely free to all who call before March 6th. The wonderful power of the X-Ray and mercury quartz light treatment is proved by the fact that they are accomplishing wonders in diseases of every description—catarrh, bronchitis, deafness, stomach, nerve and skin diseases. No matter what your disease may be, remember Daniel J. Walsh, M. D., 18 Boylston St., will make good the above offer.

STOMACH

MR. HARRY STACEY, 724 WASHINGTON ST., DORCHESTER, SAYS: "I had stomach trouble for five years. I had heartburn; pain in stomach for days at a time. Had a good appetite but what I ate would ferment and generate gas, causing pain and distress. I had employed fifteen different doctors in Boston, two in Worcester and two in Whitinsville, but I derived no benefit from their treatment. I read of Daniel J. Walsh, M. D., and was treated by him at his office. The pain and burning sensation is gone and I feel fine now."

STOMACH

MR. W. A. THOMPSON, 264 McDONOUGH ST., PORTSMOUTH, N. H., SAYS: "I had stomach trouble for years. Heartburn, constipated, headaches. Appetite good but what I ate did not agree with me. I read of Daniel J. Walsh, M. D., and had him treat me. Now I feel good. No headaches, bowels regular, no heartburn. Appetite and digestion good."

STOMACH

MR. ARTHUR DELOREY, 35 WASHINGTON ST., WEYMOUTH, SAYS: "I spent twelve years in lumber camps and acquired a severe stomach trouble, eating the greasy food served in those camps. I had a good appetite, but after eating I would be troubled with gas and pains followed by vomiting. I had been treated by several doctors and at hospitals, but their treatment did not benefit me. I read of D. J. Walsh, M. D., and had him treat me. Now I feel fine."

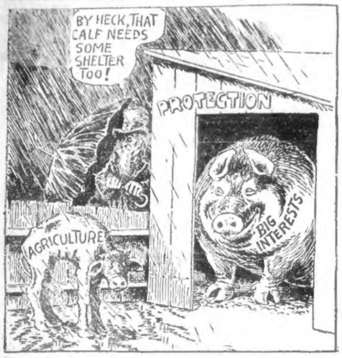
NATIONAL POLICIES OF THE HEARST NEWSPAPERS

1. An agreement of English-speaking peoples to preserve peace among themselves and promote the peace of the world.
2. A constitutional amendment to provide for the election of United States Senators in numbers proportionate to the population of each State, but no State to have less than two Senators. A reapportionment of Congressional representation immediately after every census, or in case of the failure of Congress so to act, to make the apportionment automatic at the end of the first Congressional session, the proportion of population for each representative in each case to be that of the existing Congress.
3. A separate Department of the Army, of the Navy and of the Air Forces, all united under a Secretary of National Defense.
4. Federal action to the limit of Federal Government powers to abolish illiteracy among the people of the United States, and the creation of a Secretary of Education.
5. Necessary measures to secure the election of Congress in November and its installation on the 1st of January following, and the inauguration of a President on the 1st of January immediately following his election in November.

The Calf NEEDS Brains

The Pig HAS Them



PARTIALITY IN STOCK RAISING.

This very sad picture is reproduced from Senator Capper's Weekly, published by the Senator from Kansas and read on more than a million farms.

Farmers feel sorry for themselves when they see this. The fat pig, nicely sheltered, represents big financial interests, as Senator Capper's newspaper sees them. The poor calf with his back hunched up, out in the cold, represents the farmer.

Under the picture Senator Capper writes: "Partiality in stock raising DOESN'T PAY." And the man in the picture, Uncle Sam perhaps, says, "That calf needs shelter, too."

It must be said, kindly, that in addition to needing SHELTER the calf needs brains.

The intelligent pig, representing big interests, knows enough to work and to operate with other pigs.

Big interests don't complain BETWEEN elections and vote in the same old way when election time comes. They don't forget their ENEMIES and they don't forget to reward their FRIENDS. They don't wait for anybody to "do something for them"; they go out and get what they want. They do something for themselves.

Farmers are not united, they have no definite program, and while nice election speeches are made to them, they have no influence in proportion to their numbers.

It is no exaggeration to say that one hundred "really big financial men" of the country, the sort that Senator Capper presents in this "Big Interests" pig, have more ACTUAL influence in legislation and other public matters than any ten [illegible] American farmers.

[illegible]Y KNOW HOW TO GO AFTER WHAT THEY W[illegible] HOW TO GET IT.

[illegible] ROVIDE SHELTER FOR THEMSELVES.

What maddens the farmers (and you don't blame them) is this:

The price the farmer gets for food he produces FALLS, and the price the eating public pays for that food RISES. In a signed editorial, published just above this picture, Senator Capper says:

> The purchasing power of the farmer's dollar is growing less. Farm prices dropped in August for the second time this year, a total fall of 20 points for the year, the U. S. Department of Agriculture informs us. That drags the purchasing power of the farmer's dollar down to 85 cents, the lowest in two years.
> Prices for farm products are 13 per cent. lower than in August last year, and the lowest reached in nearly two years; cotton has slumped 30 per cent. But the decline in the prices of non-agricultural products amounts to only 3 per cent., the Government reports.
> The day following the publication of these reports by the Associated Press, the Government's statistical division announced that the retail price of forty-two principal food products had increased 3 per cent. during the year, or to the highest price in thirteen years, if we except 1920, 1919 and the last six months of 1918.
> Here we have a drop of 13 per cent. in farm prices within the year, but during the same period an increase to the consumer of 3 per cent. in food prices to the highest point in thirteen years with a few notable exceptions.

It is an irritating condition, and Senator Arthur Capper, one of the strongest representatives and defenders of the farmer in or out of the Senate, makes a valiant fight for the farmers. But farmers must remember that their exploiters are united, while they are not, and apply the old saying, "Help thyself, and Heaven will help thee."

So It Goes

Government Pays Small Salaries, Bootleggers Big Salaries

Fort Lauderdale sheds a bright light on the difficulties involved in prohibition enforcement. Down there prohibition agents from Jacksonville arrested the sheriff of Broward County, six of his deputies, also Deputy Police Chief Croft and eight patrolmen. These trusty officials were all accused of being on bootleggers' payrolls. The public pays small salaries to fight prohibition. The bootleggers hire the small salaried men at better salaries to help bootlegging. That's a [illegible]ult situation.

RATS CAUSE HEAVY LOSS TO U. S.

By DR. FRANK CRANE

A RECENT law in England, called the "Rat Act," makes it a fineable offence for a householder to "harbor" rats or mice.

Some scientists carried on a series of experiments to determine whether rodents carry diseases to any great distance.

Indestructible tags were fastened to the legs of captured rats and their migrations traced.

A few months later one was captured over one hundred and fifty miles away. Others had traveled more than fifty miles during that time.

The destruction of all rodents would be a step to stamping out plagues. They form a sort of underground railway for the transportation of deadly disease microbes from place to place.

Besides microbe-carrying proclivities, the rats and mice in the United States are credited with being the cause of over four hundred million dollars loss each year.

Rodents are a common enemy and with their extermination everyone would benefit.

England, more thickly populated than America, is beginning to treat the problem seriously.

Besides the Rat Act, it has established several rat-catching firms. One of these killed more than 60,000 rats last year.

One of her scientists puts forth a new plan which he seriously says he advocates. It is to capture rats in wire traps and let all the males go and kill all the females.

In a few years, he says, such a process would reduce the females until the males would all kill each other off fighting for wives.

The only rat-killing proposal that attracted much attention in these broad United States was one made in a State Legislature a few years ago.

It was for a State "Rat-Killing Day" to be held annually. Editors all over the country gave space to the proposal. This was not because they took the idea seriously, but because the legislator who brought up the bill to kill the rats was named Ratt.

FINANCIAL NOTE

THE people of Boston pay MAYOR NICHOLS a $20,000 salary. This is about $55 a day for each of the year's 365 days—whether they be working days, Sundays, holidays, or vacation days.

NOTABLES SEE BOSTON.

Many notables see Boston for an unusual reason. This reason is because American Telephone directors hold frequent meetings in Boston as a matter of convenience for those who reside nearer the Hub than they do to New York. Besides bringing GEORGE F. BAKER, sometimes reckoned the world's third wealthiest man, to this city, the latest visitor of note thus brought here is DANIEL WILLARD, president of the Baltimore & Ohio.

"OLD MAN" ON JOB.

"Old Man of the Mountain" is on the job, still attracting tourists to New Hampshire. In previous years he has been rather inaccessible when Winter snowdrifts piled up. This year, SECRETARY OF STATE HOBART PILLSBURY reports that the Granite State is keeping the highways open as far north as Woodstock. This makes it possible to snowshoe easily to the famous "Profile," as well as to that great glacial wonder, Lost River.

BANG!

MEMORY.

Politicians call him "SMILING JIM," newspapermen refer to him as the "encyclopedia of who's who in the statesman line," and those who know him intimately say his generosities know no bound. He is none other than CITY CLERK JAMES DONOVAN, maker of Mayors and purveyor of advice to budding statesmen. A Roxbury reporter, interviewing DONOVAN, was amazed at his remarkable memory for scenes and incidents of the almost forgotten past.

LISTEN, WORLD!

By ELSIE ROBINSON

"I CAN'T say 'no,'" cries Katherine. "I know this is a shameful confession for a mature woman to make, and I wouldn't make it if I wasn't so desperately in need of help.

"All my life I have been unable to say 'no' to a request, even though I might violently dislike doing the thing asked. I am now a woman of twenty-six. I have been earning my living for seven years and am supposed to be unusually efficient and successful. I am sure that none of my friends would accuse me of having a weak character. I am not foolishly sentimental, nor cowardly, nor mentally lazy, nor particularly impulsive. If I were any of these things it might be easy to understand why I can't say 'no.' But I'm a sensible, careful sort of a person, considered very 'strong' by people who bring their troubles to me, and, outside of this one bad trait, I seem perfectly normal. And yet my inability has almost wrecked my whole life.

Becomes Engaged

"I am always giving money to perfectly worthless people. I know they are worthless when they will not give it back. I even know that such spineless charity hurts the recipients. Yet, as they talk I feel myself weakening and almost always end by handing over what they want.

"It's just the same when they ask me to do difficult things for them. You can't imagine the endless trouble I go to for people who always fall down when the test comes.

"And now, as a crowning act of foolishness, I have let myself become engaged to a man whom I neither love nor respect, simply because he has hounded me for months and I can't say 'no.' And I'm heartsick and don't know how to get out of it.

"If I was terribly soft-hearted I could understand these things. But I truly don't care a snap. And yet I'm always drifting into messes like this. Can you tell me anything that will help me, Elsie? I'm at my wit's end."

Can't Refuse

I heard a dreadful confession once, Katherine. The woman who made it was dying. For fifteen years she had been a wanton. Now, blind, hopelessly ill, she was nearing the end of her dreadful way. In one last effort to gain peace for her tortured soul, she said:

"It has all been like a bad dream. I know most people think girls take up this life because they want money or are naturally wild—but I didn't. I just couldn't say 'no.'"

Then she told me of her first misstep and how she wrecked her life by yielding to the persuasion of the man she loved.

"It just seemed as if I didn't have the right to refuse," she moaned. "And always, no matter how I fought against things, that feeling that I didn't have the right to refuse has gotten the best of me. It wasn't that I wanted to do those things—or that I was afraid—but it seemed as if what the other person wanted was more important than what I wanted."

That poor soul voiced a great truth with her dying breath, Katherine. Unwittingly, she told YOU what is the matter with you. While she was still a girl the man she loved made her feel INFERIOR, made her feel that his wishes were more important and his strength greater than hers. Her nature was still plastic and that barbed feeling sunk deep, deep into her spirit and festered there. It became what the psychologists call an "INFERIORITY COMPLEX." It was hidden—so deeply hidden—that she, herself, could not analyze it—but it influenced all her acts and in time it wrought her ruin. Inferiority complexes manifest themselves in many ways. In her it made her feel that the desires of others were more important than her own desires—made her unable to say "no."

Some such thing has happened to you, Katherine. You are naturally a strong, sensible person and most of your conduct is normal. But there's a feeling of inferiority festering some place in your spirit that gives other people the chance to "put things over" on you.

Edison Star Legend

By Garrett P. Serviss.

"WILL you please tell me if there is a star in the firmament known as the 'Edison star'? Is it artificial? If so, how do they do it? I am asking to settle an argument about the aforementioned star.

R. H. M.

The legend was born at the time of one of the periodical reappearances of the planet Venus in her resplendent regalia as the queen of the evening stars. It happened on tha occasion that Thomas A. Edison was making his famous experiments at Menlo Park, in New Jersey, which were destined to bestow upon the world the more than royal gift of electric lighting, and the popular imagination was aflame with facts and rumors about his work.

Enough had been learned of things done at Menlo Park which seemed too marvelous for belief, things rendered all the more incredible just because they had been held by certain scientists to be impossible—enough had been accomplished by Edison to insure a ready belief for almost any feat or any caprice that fancy might ascribe to him.

Then it was that somebody, seeing Venus glowing with the brightness of a headlight in the sunset sky over the Orange Mountains, started the story that that extraordinary light was an electric star, nightly sent aloft by Edison from his laboratory at Menlo Park, in pursuance of his revolutionary experiments.

It may very well be that the inventor of this story himself believed that what he said must be true, for how otherwise account, he may have thought, for so brilliant an object, so electrically bright, appearing every evening in the sky directly over the place where Menlo Park lay, and being drawn down as the night proceeded?

"There! See, Edison has lowered his star again for tonight."

Watchers at that time were reported to have used those v[illegible] words, completely unconscious [illegible] the fact that what they had in reality been looking at was a world, the twin of this earth in size, and its apparent superior in beauty, reverberating the sunshine from its white clouds, and seeming to sink behind the western horizon because of the steady rolling of the earth eastward around its axis.

Once every nineteen months Venus reappears in the evening sky, and during the last forty years there has not been, I believe, a single instance of the reappearance of the beautiful planet without a recrudescence of this modern myth, or without the sending of letters like the one already quoted, examples of which, I have not a doubt, are received by many astronomers.
